Roselle-Higgins Accidents Prompt Signals Study

Frequent and serious traffic accidents at the Roselle-Higgins roads intersections in Hoffman Estates has prompted village board action to get a traffic study of signalization at the junction.

Concern over intersection accidents has been raised at the board level twice in the past two weeks, most recently by Edward Kalasa, deputy chief of the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District. Monday night Kalasa related the story of an accident Saturday, in which he said one woman was seriously injured. For the past month, said Kalasa, serious accidents have occurred every weekend. He urged the board to request the state highway department to change signalization at the junction.

THE VILLAGE already had written to the state, after board discussion two weeks ago. Streets Supt. Kenneth Dean wrote to G. D. Richter, of the department's north section, asking for installation of a left turn signal for eastbound traffic, and pointing out such signals already are operating for north, south and westbound traffic. No response had been received as of Tuesday afternoon.

Police Chief John O'Connell said yesterday another letter would be mailed today, repeating the original request. He also reported there have been 11 accidents at the intersection since Sept. 1.

Donald Totten, assistant director of the department's north section, yesterday said he was not aware of the first letter, but had received a personal inquiry about the intersection that morningl Richard Regan, plan commission chairman, called Tuesday to ask for study of possible changes in timing of the lights, said Totten. The question has been referred to the department's operations division, he said.

THE STUDY will include phasing and timing of lights, as well as other alternatives, said Totten. Left turn signals for eastbound drivers also will be considered, he added.

The board also heard complaints about flooding near the new Hoffman Estate High School, which still is under construction.

David Schuman, 142 Elmwood Ln., thanked the board for its earlier response to his complaints, which he said contributed to solution of flooding problems at his property. But problems now are being experienced by his neighbors, he said.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer agreed to seek a second meeting with representatives from Dist. 211.

NANCY MARIASIS (left) and Colleen Halloran check over some charts for residents at the Abbington House in Roselle. The two girls, both seniors at Schaumburg High School, work half days at the home for the elderly as part of the Industrial Cooperative Education program. Each of the four Dist. 211 high schools has an ICE program.

Board To Eye Annexation Of 400 Acres

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education will consider a resolution annexing part of neighboring Barrington High School Dist. 224 at a special meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the district administration building, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine.

The Dist. 224 board last week passed a resolution agreeing to let Dist. 211 annex part of its territory, according to Dist. 211 Supt. Richard Kolze.

The land in question is 400 acres in the Northwest corner of Schaumburg Township which includes the Barrington Square condominium development, Kolze said.

The area is within the village of Hoffman Estates and in Schaumburg Township Elementary Dist. 54, but high school students are now bused to Barrington to attend school.

Kolze said Dist. 211 estimates there are now about 230 elementary age children and 37 high school students living in the area.

Once both Dist. 211 and 224 have passed the necessary resolutions agreeing to the annexation, the boundary proposal must be approved by both the Cook and Lake County boards of school trustees, which must approve all boundary changes.

The Lake County board is involved because part of Barrington Dist. 224 is in Lake County.

Invites Mosquito Bite Victims To Parley

Mosquito bite victims in Hoffman Estates were issued a special invitation Monday night by Village Trustee Diane Jensen, chairman of the board's environmental committee.

Wilbur Mitchell, representing the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District, will attend the environmental committee meeting at 8 p.m. tonight in the municipal building, 1200 Gannon Dr.

"I invite anybody who's had a mosquito bite this summer to attend," said Mrs. Jensen.

The committee will discuss the district's abatement program in Hoffman Estates.

Schaumburg Willing To Build Dam At Woodfield

by KURT BAER

Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher said yesterday the Village of Schaumburg is willing to build a dam across the Woodfield Mall drainage ditch to retard the flow of storm water to Salt Creek.

The Herald disclosed Monday that millions of gallons of water were draining from the shopping center virtually unobstructed to the creek during heavy storms.

Atcher said the dam would consist of a pair of concrete culverts under a raised swale. The culverts would cut across the drainage ditch and temporarily hold back water in a natural retention area in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

The location of the dam, would correspond with Bisner Road if it were extended north across Higgins Road, he said.

ATCHER SAID the road would be built up with clay and dirt and would act as a barrier to water running east across the forest preserve from Interstate 90 to Salt Creek.

The two culverts under the road would serve to regulate the flow of water to the creek.

Atcher said an earlier Bisner Road dam across the ditch had apparently been destroyed by someone who had cut a channel through it allowing the water to flow unobstructed to the creek.

He declined to speculate on who might have cut through the dam. The mayor, however, said earlier he had checked the dam and found it intact.

An inspection by Herald reporters revealed that the only apparent barrier between I-90 and the creek was a low natural sandbar.

Atcher said if the forest preserve district agreed, it would be relatively easy for the Village of Schaumburg to maintain the Bisner Road dam since it is already responsible for maintaining the drainage ditch.

The village has both the dirt and the culverts necessary for the project, he said, adding that the dam could be built at relatively little cost.

Girls Love Their Job . . . And ICE

by WANDALYN RICE

Nancy Mariasis and Colleen Halloran are finding out what it would be like to be nurses.

The two Schaumburg High School seniors are part of the ICE (Industrial Cooperative Education) program at the school. As part of the program they work at Abbington House, a home for the elderly in Roselle.

"We give all kinds of personal care, take care of some medication, make beds and are just kind of there to talk to the old people," Nancy said.

So far the girls say the love the job.

"The people are really nice and some of them are so funny," Nancy said recently. "We have one old guy who always complains about the food, but he's really nice too."

Twenty students are now in the ICE program at Schaumburg, attending classes from 7:30 to 11 a.m. and working at least 15 hours a week after that. The other three schools in High School Dist. 211 have similar programs.

ALL THE STUDENTS have one class a day with ICE teacher Robert Saville and have to have their jobs approved by him. This semester, besides Nancy and Colleen, students in the program are working on machine shops, as dental assistants, mechanics and "almost everything except sales and office work," according to Saville.

Some of the students will go directly to jobs like those they hold in the ICE program once they graduate, Saville said. Others, like Nancy and Colleen plan to go on to college or other study before becoming full-time workers.

The students in the program must work at least 15 hours a week, but most work 25 or 30 hours, Saville said.

"Sometimes they start to get close to 40 hours, but I try to discourage that." he said.

Students now in the Schaumburg program are making anywhere from $1.65 to $3.10 an hour, Saville said. The main stiuulation put on the jobs is that "they have to be learning situations and we try to set up a training outline with the boss," he said.

Some of the students, like Nancy, hold more than one job, working at the ICE job and then at another, less skilled job, also part time.

A time shortage is probably the biggest problem Saville's students face.

"WHEN YOU GET home at night you just have time to do your homework," Nancy said. "There isn't time for anything else."

Even that problem, though, doesn't keep students away from the program, Saville said.

"I think kids today are interested in things outside of school. This way they can learn about an occupation and when they get out they have some experience," he said. "Today employers are looking for high school graduates with 10 years experience and this gives them a chance."

County Board Hit With Injunction

bf ROGER CAPETTINI

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan yesterday issued a restraining order which prevents, at least temporarily, the county board from stripping James Gaughan from his post as county comptroller and replacing him with Thomas Beck.

The injunction against the county board was granted by Judge Egan, in response to a suit filed yesterday by States' Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan, during a one and one-half hour hearing yesterday afternoon.

The hearing was scheduled after the county board voted Monday to adopt an ordinance which took control and jurisdiction of the comptroller's office away from County Clerk Edward Barrett and giving it to the county board. The ordinance was suggested by County Pres. George Dunne who said the action was "precipitated" by the recent "situation" in the comptroller's office.

THE "SITUATION" is the scandal which broke in the comptroller's office last week that Gaughan had rehired his former boss C. R. Hodgman as a $200-a-day consultant the same day Hodgman had resigned from the job under pressure.

After the board adopted the ordinance Monday, Dunne told reporters he believed the county has the authority to take control of the comptroller's office under home rule provisions of the state constitution.

Hanrahan, however, had issued a legal opinion in December, stating the board could not override the duties and responsibilities of the county clerk as established by state statute. He filed suit against the county board yesterday to test the board's authority in taking control.

Yesterday, Judge Egan agreed with Hanrahan, issuing the temporary restraining order, which, in effect, ousted Beck from the office he held for only one day and reinstating Gaughan.

In issuing the injunction, Judge Egan said "There is a strong probability the state's attorney's office will probably prevail on the merits of the case when it is ultimately determined." Judge Egan set Oct. 13 for trial on the suit.

The judge also said the case, "is a textbook example of irreparable damage." Vincent Bentivenga, chief of the civil division of Hanrahan's office, who represented Gaughan and Barrett yesterday, said the "irreparable damage" being done was that some 6,000 welfare checks had been held up because of the board's action Monday.

BENTIVENGA SAID roughly 3,000 public aid checks are mailed each day with Barrett's signature affixed, but that no checks have gone out in the past two days because of the new ordinance.

The county board was represented in the hearing by Thomas R. Mulroy, a private attorney. Mulroy said he feels the board has the authority to take the action under home rule provisions to regulate for the "public health safetf and welfare." He said the ordinance represented "emergency action to maintain and establish the fiscal integrity of the comptroller's office."

Service Station Also Approved

OK Robert Hall Site Plans

Approval of preliminary site plans for a Robert Hall Village and a special use permit for a Shell service station were granted by the Hoffman Estates village Board Monday.

No action was taken on an annexation request from Centex Homes, which has indicated it will seek county zoning for a high-density development plan.

The Robert Hall Village, to be bounded by Higgins Road, Governor's Lane, Hassell Road and Poplar Creek would include a total of eight stores, restaurant and possibly a service station and a drive-in photo service shop.

The board approved the plan, minus the service station, for a 266,700 square foot enclosed mall, with a Robert Hall department store forming the major facility. The department store is to cover 125,000 square feet.

A GROCERY STORE, which Richard Regan, plan commission chairman, suggested might be either a Jewel Osco or Dominick's store, will cover 73,000 square feet. The rest of the enclosed mall will be devoted to a drug store, movie theater and three smaller retail stores. The restaurant, liquor store, photo service facility, and gas station (if permitted) will be in separate buildings around the perimeter of the parking lot.

A 10-acre section to the rear of the center might later be developed as a sports complex or tennis club, Regan said.

Preliminary plans do not show water retention facilities, but Regan said the developer will provide them in final site and engineering plans.

The board also approved an advance billboard sign, announcing the coming of the center.

The Shell station would be located on the southeast corner of Barrington and Higgins Roads. The board permitted use of a septic system and private well until such time as village sewer and water mains are installed in front of the property. The mains presently are 1,500 to 2,000 feet from the site, and installation to the site will cost between $30,000 and $40,000, said Public Works Superintendent John Hossack.

The Centex development plan, as proposed for single-family homes and townhouses showed 15 per cent of the units having four bedrooms and 50 per cent having three bedrooms. Regan reported the plan commission dismissed the request without prejudice, permitting Centex to file a new plan, because the high density proposal does not conform to village regulations. The Village restricts densities to 15 per cent three bedroom units.

No Hitch Expected In Blood Labeling Law At Hospital

No immediate effect is anticipated at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights from a new Illinois law requiring blood to be labelled "volunteer" or "purchased."

"We draw close to all the blood we need right here (at the hospital)," explained Jack Ryon, public relations director for the hospital. Since very little "purchased" blood is used at the hospital, Ryon expects the new labelling procedures to have little effect.

Not all hospitals are able to rely on donor blood to meet their needs. It is estimated that 40 per cent of the total blood supply in the Chicago area comes from paid donors.

By requiring blood to be labelled, officials assume many physicians will avoid using "purchased" blood because of future liabilities. Ryon said certain diseases are not detectable in blood and the word of the donor has to be relied upon. It is believed volunteers would have less reason to cover up their past diseases than donors who are receiving money for their blood.

"THIS DOES not guarantee the blood will be disease free but the probability of disease is less," explained Ryon.

Two incentive programs are used to obtain "volunteer" blood. First, if a person joins the Cooperative Blood Replacement Plan, by giving one pint of blood, he protects himself and his family for one year, himself and his wife for two years or only himself for four years.

Second is a replacement program. Since most medical insurance policies do not cover the cost of blood, a patient receiving blood may have friends and relatives donate the blood in his name. His bill then is discounted proportionately.

With the passage of the new law, the replacement program has been changed to make replacement donors members of the Cooperative Blood Replacement Plan and eligible for blood at no cost to them or their family for six months.

Ryon said a list of donors with rare types of blood is kept on file. Blood outdates itself in 21 days so rather than draw a rare type of blood and possibly have to throw it out, we wait until it is needed, he explained.

Schaumburg Township Teacher Talks

Schools Offer To Hike Base Pay $200

Negotiators for the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Monday night offered to raise the base pay for teachers by $200, to $8,500.

The proposal would mean proportional raises for more experienced teachers. Top pay under the new proposal, after 16 years' experience, would be $18,062, an increase of the present top pay of $17,600.

In making the offer, the board negotiators rejected a proposal made by the district's education association last week which would have frozen the base pay at its present level of $8,300. The association offer, however, meant larger raises for more experienced teachers, with top pay after 16 years set at $18,560.

BOARD PRES. Robert Creek said the board was rejecting the association proposal because of a "philosophical position" that the salary proposed for beginning teachers with masters' degrees is too high and because the top salary would be more than twice the amount made by a beginning teacher.

Under the association proposal, a beginning teacher with a master's degree would have made 16 per cent more than the $8,300 paid to a beginner with a bachelor's degree. Creek said the board's position is that a master's degree is not worth that much more.

In addition, he said the top pay of $18,560 proposed by the teachers would be too high "as the board perceives it on the basis of the community and of our philosophy."

Association officials showed some annoyance at the new board proposal. The last association proposal was drawn up after Creek suggested that the teachers find a way to reward experienced teachers without increasing the base pay.

FOLLOWING A closed-door caucus with the association bargaining team that lasted nearly an hour, Carl Flaks, association spokesman, said the board's new proposal "runs counter to the idea of rewarding experienced teachers. It subsidizes the newer, inexperienced teacher at the expense of the professional teacher."

Flaks added, "We're not here to argue philosophy," and asked for another negotiations session this week where the association could present another counter-proposal.

Creek explained that a special board meeting has been called for today and members of the board negotiating team will be out of town during the rest of the week. The two sides agreed to meet next Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The two sides have been negotiating for nearly seven months on the 1972-73 teachers' contract. District teachers returned to work without a contract in August and are now being paid on the basis of the 1971-72 salary scale.

The two sides have already reached tentative agreement on the negotiations procedure to be followed next year and on several working conditions. Any final agreement must be ratified by the full board and association membership.

Mrs. Robert Dietsche Wins Sorority's Highest Honor

Mrs. Robert Dietsche, 333 Mayfield Dr., Hoffman Estates has won the highest honor her sorority, the Epsilon Sigma Alpha International, can bestow on a new member, the First Pearl Award.

Mrs. Dietsche, a member of the Gamma Tau area chapter earned her award by completing a series of achievements as chairman of her chapter's philanthropic committee.

She will receive her award at a special ceremony Oct. 23 at a pledge and awards dinner at the home of Mrs. Thomas Brown, Schaumburg. Mrs. Richard Smoczynski of Hanover Park, chapter treasurer, will present the award.

ESA is a leadership service organization for women and emphasizes educational and philanthropic accomplishments in attaining the First Pearl Award.

Mrs. Dietsche, a housewife and mother of two children, helped with the St. Jude Research Hospital campaign, made bandages for the Cancer Society, donated food to a needy family and will be stuffing envelopes for the Crusade of Mercy.

Presently Gamma Tau is preparing for an Arts and Crafts show Nov. 9 in the Bartlett Park District Fieldhouse.

The show entitled "Traveling Christmas Boutique," will feature moderately priced items for young and old.

Year's First PTA Meeting Set Tuesday

The first general meeting of Edwin Aldrin PTA will open at 8 p.m. Tuesday with introductions of faculty and members of the board of education.

A speaker from the local drug abuse program will discuss current drug problems among elementary children. In keeping with parents' night, the school will hold open house for fourth through sixth grades after the meeting.

The school is at 617 Boxwood Dr., Schaumburg.

Airport Committee Will Weigh Feasibility Study

Details of a feasibility study, approved by the village board last month, will be discussed when Schaumburg Airport Committee meets Thursday.

Under guidance of Ray LeBeau, committee chairman, the committee will supervise the study to be performed by Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, consulting engineers.

An expanded general aviation airport under municipal ownership is being discussed in conjunction with plans for a regional transportation center proposed for development in the village.

Results of the comprehensive professional study are expected to determine if need for an expanded air facility exists in Schaumburg.

Performance of the investigation, as approved by the village board, is contingent on the availability of federal and state funding.

UNDER TERMS of the Airport and Airways Development Act of 1970, two-thirds funding could be provided by the Federal Aviation Administration; one-sixth may be available from the Illinois Department of Aeronautics.

Remaining portions of the cost would be paid by the village as project sponsor. Local officials plan recapture of these funds through proceeds from a revenue bond program in order to avoid taxpayer burden.

Officials of the consulting firm estimate total cost of the study at about $42,000 based on similar investigations.

Earlier this year, Schaumburg appropriated about $59,000 for the study since, even though federal and state funding is expected, all payouts will be made to consultants by the village.

Presently, committee members are conducting a preliminary investigation to confirm availability of both FAA and state funds.

The Airport Committee meeting, open to the public, will be held in Schaumburg's Great Hall (conference room) at 8 p.m.

Chroma and Tint

by Ed Landwehr

We get many color TV service calls at Landwehr's Home Appliances, particularly on the older sets, for the color reception. Sometimes the caller could have saved the service call.

By simply turning the chroma control you find that one end brings out vivid color and the other end no color. You move the control very slowly until you have the best color. And the tint control should be adjusted on a human face close-up because skin tones are the best test. Everything falls in place now. Of course, there can be minor variations between programs, commercials and stations, but this is normal. Your set will adjust itself now.

However, if adjustments keep coming out, you should have immediate service to prevent further breakdown. Our phone number 255-0700 begins prompt action for accurate service, most times right where your set is standing. Try us next time.

You can also bring your set in to our shop at 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. We have fine displays of many national brands of color TVs, sound equipment and radios.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

William H. Rentschler, the man who managed Richard M. Nixon's Illinois campaign in 1968, has circulated a history of that campaign which must be construed as a warning to Republicans that the expected landslide victory of the President could evaporate before their eyes.

Rentschler was the man who ran against Sen. Ralph Smith in the Republican primary in 1970, predicting disaster for the GOP in the fall election if people such as Smith and Supt. of Public Instruction Ray Page were allowed to carry the party standard. It is difficult now to argue with his prediction.

In a 32-page summary of the campaign, written within days of the 1968 election, Rentschler reviews how Nixon went from a "loser" to a first-ballot presidential choice at the Republican convention, to a predicted landslide winner over Hubert H. Humphrey, and finally to a hair-line winner with less than 50 per cent of the popular vote.

Excerpts:

"While his campaign was still aborning, Dick Nixon told me emphatically, 'No man who does not win Illinois can hope to win the presidency. No man has. No man will.' " (Rentschler's message is clearly that that axiom is as true today as it was in 1968.)

"IN A STATEMENT issued Oct. 23 (1968), I said the Republican Party stands at 'the edge of a landslide.' Nixon's victory margin in Illinois 'will exceed 400,000 votes and may well top a half-million.' " (Some predictions for the 1972 vote top that optimistic figure.)

"By (Nov. 3, two days before election), it was evident to me that the air was fast escaping from Nixon's Illinois balloon. I called (John) Mitchell (then Nixon's national campaign manager, now attorney general) at his Rye, New York, home that Sunday morning. He was cool as a cucumber and luxuriating in what he was convinced would be a nationwide sweep. I told him I was getting a bit worried, and that I would settle for 'any kind of a win, not a landslide.' "

Rentschler then reviews the early election-night returns when the Nixon landslide disappeared as Humphrey carried Massachusetts, New York and Michigan and captured early leads in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

As it turned out, of course, the final result hinged on Illinois, and Nixon's 38,000-vote margin here finally secured for him the White House.

What is the point of reviewing all of this Rentschler invites you to project yourself forward to Nov. 8, 1972:

"SOME 'EXPERTS' SAW a historic landslide. Many people seemed bored, preoccupited, even satisifed with their lot, hardly the stuff of an upset. But they weren't talking. The glacial making up of minds seemed to mature slowly, but there seemed no cause for alarm. . .

"But somehow the kids in Ohio, aided by an improbable cadre of old pols, put it off by the width of a blade of grass, and the pretenders squeak through in Illinois, and the reversing tides bring other surprises.

"The dawn heralds McGovern-Shriver. . ."

It is, Rentschler admits, an improbable script. But then that's what he was told when he predicted a Republican disaster in 1970.

Education Today

Should Extremists Teach?

BY WANDALYN RICE

Civil libertarians should take note — they apparently need to do some recruiting in the ranks of the nation's teachers.

The September issue of "Today's Education," a slick magazine put out by the National Education Association, which proudly (and accurately) calls itself the country's largest teachers group, contains a poll to make an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union quiver.

The poll, conducted by the NEA Research Division, asked teachers in public elementary and high schools whether they thought political extremists should be allowed to teach in public schools.

A fairly substantial majority of the teachers polled said "extremists" should not be teachers.

OF THOSE POLLED, 70.4 per cent said extremists of both left and right should be banned from elementary schools, 67.3 per cent said both should be banned from high schools, and 51.5 per cent said they should be banned from colleges and universities.

The precise question the pollsters asked was: "Do you think persons who publicly identify themselves with extremist groups (e.g. American Communist Party, American Nazi Party, John Birch Society) should be barred from teaching in publicly supported schools and colleges?"

Note, the question does not ask whether those persons should be prevented from teaching their particular belief. It only asks if publicly identified persons should be allowed to teach anything.

In short, a mild-mannered member of the John Birch Society, who in class wholly occupies himself with teaching first graders to read harmless Dick and Jane books, should be fired if he becomes publicly identified with his "extremist" group, according to the majority polled.

In addition, the question cites only three examples of extremist groups, and implies that there might be others besides those named. In a poll which demands precise yes and no response, apparently no one had the chance to ask who would determine what is, and is not, an extremist.

SOME REPUBLICANS devoted to Nixon and Agnew, for example, might firmly believe that McGovern supporters are dangerous extremists and demand they be barred. That might catch a number of our own local, Northwest suburban teachers, many of whom (at least in my presence) have been sporting McGovern buttons lately.

At the same time, some Democrats might want to argue that anyone who could support the party of the ITT, Watergate and wheat scandals must have dangerous tendencies and should be thrown out of the public schools. Imagine, if you can, the outcry that would follow.

The whole issue of teachers being involved in politics of any kind, is, of course, a touchy one. A conservative Republican parent is likely to be upset when he discovers that his son's history teacher is an admirer of Franklin D. Roosevelt, for example.

Barry Goldwater claimed in 1964, in fact, that the Republicans had only one more chance to elect a president because all the nation's social studies teachers were Democrats and were indoctrinating a generation of voters.

Richard Nixon was elected four years after the "last chance" but that hasn't dampened the emotion surrounding the issue.

The fact is, as courts have fairly routinely held, teachers have the same kinds of political rights as everyone else — and that presumably means they can affiliate with Communists, John Birchers and the like.

TO SAY THAT is not quite the same as saying a teacher should have all his first and second graders learning to read on "The Thoughts of Chairman Mao." School boards control curriculum and therefore can presumably prevent teachers from indoctrinating their charges.

Interestingly, the aame magazine that contained the poll where teachers came out against "extremists" also had a long article proclaiming a great victory because a court had upheld freedom of speech for teachers.

In short, the NEA journal is praising courts for upholding teachers rights, while its members are opposing the extension of those rights to "extremists."

That kind of double-think is fairly common in all parts of our society today, but it's most distressing when it crops up among teachers.

After all, teachers are supposed to understand the Constitution — and teach children about it.

And no one has yet made the First Amendment read, "Congress shall make no law abridging freedom of speech for those who agree with the majority."

At least not yet.

Strike At Osco In 4th Week

The area-wide strike by some 140 Osco Drug pharmacists entered its fourth week yesterday. Filling the personnel gap in the meantime, Osco supervisory employes who are registered pharmacists are working as druggists.

The strike, affecting 70 Chicago metropolitan area Osco Drug stores, began Sept. 12. Members of the Professional Pharmacists Association called the action following a breakdown in negotiations.

A SPOKESMAN for the Osco Drug subsidiary of the Jewel Companies said no new bargaining sessions had been planned early this week. "So far we have been able to maintain service in all our stores," the spokesman said. He added that only registered pharmacists are compounding prescriptions, but apprentice pharmacists, may give out prepackaged prescriptions.

Joe Canzolino, a pharmacist and secretary-treasurer of the Professional Pharmacists Association, said earlier that adequate supervision of non-professionals doing pharmacy work is among the issues involved in the dispute. He said both parties agreed to a salary of $313.20 a week. However, work schedules and the assignment of shifts after 9 p.m. are unresolved issues.

Area Milk Prices Are On The Way Up

bf LEA TONKIN

Consumers, before you harp at the check out girl or deliveryman this week when you discover milk is costing you more, remember that the spiraling prices are simply not controlled by local market factors. At least, that's what some industry experts are telling us as bottled milk prices climb 2 to 6 cents a gallon.

It all starts with the cheese factories in Wisconsin and Minnesota. They're doing a booming business this year, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) milk price administrators. Whenever this happens the price for class II milk (used in production) always rises.

"This situation has been triggered a couple of times recently," explained Robert Thomas, assistant market administrator for the USDA in Chicago. "The federal order market order price then is determined by an average of prices for milk sold to factories in Wisconsin and Minnesota. We add $1.26 to the price to bring it to the bottling (Class I) price level."

In September, the Class I price level established for milk sold in the Chicago region reached $6.27 per hundred weight. Then this month, it rose to $6.33 per hundred weight.

FARMERS receive a blend price for their milk, according to Thomas. The price is based on the ratio of Class I and Class I milk consumed in this region1

An extra premium, or superpool charge, is added to the federal milk market price by the giant Central Milk Producers Cooperative (CMPC) serving the Chicago area and part of Wisconsin. This organization of 14 dairy coops supplies 95 per cent of the milk consumed in the Chicago metropolitan area.

The superpool cost is hiked as a result of the higher federal price minimum, according to Judy Brown, director of information for CMPC's member group, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., in Chicago. A 15 cent additional superpool charge was levied as of this month, increasing the price for Class I milk from $6.54 to $6.69 per hundredweight.

Miss Brown also pointed to the heavy demand for cheese production in Minnesota and Wisconsin factories as the culprit in the price raising mechanism. She added, "For anything above a 2 cents-a-gallon increase, people will have to assess the blame somewhere else." She said the price boost will net farmers an average 1-1/3 cents a gallon, but did not account for the remaining 2/3 cent increase.

Increased processing costs and the added superpool charge are boosting prices charged by suppliers to the Modern Dairy in Arlington Heights, according to president Dick Michalski. "As of Oct. 1, we are seeing increases of one cent a quart, or four cents a gallon," he said. "We're a distributor and these costs are passed on to us by the processor." The firm serves 7,000 area residents.

A SPOKESMAN for National Food Stores indicated the chain will raise milk prices in the near future, although the exact price increase is not yet determined. Prices at a National store in Arlington Heights for a gallon of whole milk ranged from a sale price of 79 cents to $1.01, before the increase.

An employe at an Eagle Discount Supermarket in Mount Prospect reported a price of 99 cents a gallon for whole milk on Monday, although an increase is anticipated this week.

"No information is being given out yet" on milk prices at Hillman's Finer Foods chain, according to a spokesman at a Mount Prospect outlet.

Approximately two cents a gallon is added to the price for milk distributed by Sealtest's Palatine facility as of this week. A spokesman for the firm said prices at the retail level could rise 4 cents a gallon.

"We're holding the line at this point," said a spokesman for the A&P chain early this week. "Milk is a very competitive item, so nobody wants to be the first to announce an increase," he added.

"Our increase will be two cents a gallon," said Bill Newby, public relations federal milk marketing order and to a lesser extent, labor, account for the hike, he said.

"The outlook is not encouraging" for several other items in the grocery store, according to Newby. Fruit and vegetable crops are adversely affected by unseasonable weather conditions across the country, jacking up prices. Pork prices are relatively high. Although beef prices are not at peak levels, heavy consumer demand is propping up price levels, Newby said.

Milk Surplus - But Still Prices Climb

by MONICA WILCH

Milk prices are going up again, and yet Chicago has unnecessary surpluses of milk.

By the law of supply and demand, excess production should force prices down. But the artificially high prices are maintained by the dairy cooperatives, who are empowered by the federal government's milk market orders.

As a result, consumers are paying monopoly prices for milk today, according to the University of Illinois agricultural economist Dr. Roland Bartlett. This outdated price structure was initiated in the 1930s to insure sufficient supplies of milk, but it is no longer economically justifiable in the face of excess production, Dr. Bartlett says.

HOWEVER, THE structure is profitable for the dairy coops. The Associated Milk Producers, Inc., (AMPI) which controls 95 per cent of the milk supplied to Chicago, was sued earlier this year by both the U.S. Justice Department and the Attorney General of Illinois for alleged monopoly of prices. The state charged that AMPI has added $12 million annually to the priceof bottled milk in Chicago — most of which went to the dairy organizations, not farmers.

The dairy industry is blaming farmers for last week's price hike, but actually, farmers may benefit little from it. According to Hollis Hatfield, dairy specialist for the American Farm Bureau, "Farmers may not see any difference" from this increase; at most, they might reap "a few cents." For example, out of the August 40 cent premium above the federal minimum price, farmers got 3 cents, Hatfield said.

The reason is that less than 50 per cent of the total milk produced here is sold as bottled milk, which is the only kind to which the premium applies. The excess is manufactured. And, Hatfield said, "We have a lot more milk than there's a market for, so it goes to other places to be manufactured."

This surplus "washes out about 15 cents of the 40 cent premium," Hatfield said, and "most of the remainder goes into the coops' superpools and toward promotional expenses."

ACCORDING TO Bartlett, the consumer is actually subsidizing the manufacture of milk into dairy products through the prices he pays for fluid milk. Bartlett has suggested that bottled milk prices could be cut — giving the consumer a break — and the price of manufactured milk raised, which would have the effect of reducing some of the excess and encouraging production to center in the areas of lowest production cost.

Bartlett predicted that the consumer will get little relief in the price of milk even if the suits against the dairy cooperatives are successful, because the problem is with the federal market orders — which were raised before the dairy industry announced its price increase last week.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged earlier this year, in a suit aimed at rolling back the federal price supports, that the structure is politically rather than economically motivated. He pointed to a $300,000 contribution by AMPI to President Nixon's reelection campaign.

Once Again: County Scandal

Once again the resident taxpayers of Cook County have been afforded the pleasure of witnessing dishonesty, corruption and greed at work in the hallowed halls and offices at the Cook County Building.

It has been a rare and pleasurable year for Cook County voters. First it was the piles of taxpayers' money lying idle in several banks, earning interest for the banks only. Then we learned several of the banks had high ranking county political figures on their boards of directors.

Then we were treated to another round of vote fraud and vote stealing in the March primary election.

As spring blossomed throughout the county, so did the story of County Comptroller C. R. Hodgman's self-serving lease negotiations and remodeling contracts for county public aid offices.

Last week the enviable taxpayers were blessed with two more revelations which could not help but to warm the hearts of those enamored with good government in Cook County.

The stars in this latest round of political showmanship were, in the order of their appearance, James Gaughan and his boss Edward Barrett.

First it was learned that Gaughan, who took over the reins when Hodgman resigned for health reasons, rehired his too-sick-to-work boss, giving him $200 of the taxpayers' money each day in consulting fees.

Then County Clerk Edward Barrett upstaged Gaughan when federal indictments were returned, charging him with bribery, tax evasion and mail fraud, stemming from alleged kickbacks worth $180,000 from his favorite voting machine company.

These common displays of government corruption in the county have given all the taxpayers a grand opportunity to see their government in action — or inaction, whichever you prefer.

One of the more interesting aspects of all this drama on the local political scene is that the taxpayers have been given the chance to view it all only because of the efforts of newspapers, the Better Government Association and the federal government.

Apparently too busy conducting a reelection campaign and a criminal defense, of all things, in the Criminal Courts Building, the state's attorney's office has not seen its way clear to bring any of this government inaction to the eyes of the public.

We find it absurd that the taxpayers of the county must rely on newspapers and the BGA to keep us informed of how the government of this county actually operates. It is ludicrous to find that the job of policing the government has been abdicated to these entities by the state's attorney's office — the agency which has the authority and, indeed, the responsibility to do the job.

Certain county officials, however, seem to be concerned and interested in preserving the integrity of Cook County government.

County Pres. George Dunne, by his actions this week, may fit into that category.

Although it is somewhat difficult to imagine Dunne was unaware of Hodgman's secret rehiring, we will grant him the benefit of the doubt and commend him for his efforts to bring the county comptroller's office under the closer scrutiny of the county board.

We are somewhat doubtful of the constitutionality of Dunne's new ordinance, taking the comptroller's office from the jurisdiction of the county clerk, and we are reluctant to endorse any attempt by which the county tries to gain control by overriding state statute.

At the same time, however, it is gratifying to see the county board make some attempt to assure the people of th ecounty some degree of honesty in their government.

The shame of it, once again however, is that such drastic measures apparently must be taken to give the taxpayers that assurance.

The state's attorney's office has the statutory trust of the people to guarantee the government of this county is being operated in the best interests of those being governed.

It is inexcusable that this corruption and dishonesty has flourished without drawing the attention of Hanrahan's office.

Hodgman has been taken off the county payroll and Gaughan, at least temporarily, has joined his predecessor.

The public deserves a more complete accounting than the mere firing of two men, however, and it would seem only proper that Hanrahan's office begin a full-fledged grand jury investigation of the entire situation.

Ask A Native

You can fool some foreign admirers of the Soviet Union all of the time and all of the foreign admirers of the Soviet Union some of the time, but you can't fool a native citizen of the Soviet Union any of the time.

It was one of the latter who made the most perceptive remark about Miss Davis' triumphal tour of the workers' paradise.

After listening to some of her more sweepingly enthusiastic statements of praise for the Communist system, he asked an American reporter:

"Is she a fool or is she dishonest?"

Public's Issue

Vote Switchers Explain Why

This year, like other recent Presidential election years, has been marked by a flurry of dissident Democrats and Republicans jumping across party lines to vote for the Presidential nominee of the opposing party.

Two such pesons are Richard Mead of Mount Prospect and Tobette Casbo Shapiro of Glencoe. Mr. Mead is a Republican voting for McGovern; Mrs. Sharpiro is a Democrat casting her ballot for Nixon.

And they've contributed "Public's Issues" to us on their reasons for the vote switch.

by RICHARD MEAD

I will vote for George McGovern in the coming presidential election. Indeed this may seem a little inconsistent since my profile resembles that of a good Republican. Born, raised, and educated in Indiana, I still adhere strongly to many of this area's conservative traditions. A business university graduate, an officer in the Air Force, now an aspiring 37 year old marketing associate for a huge Wall Street corporation, we live in the outer Chicago suburbs where all good Republicans live. Although I have always listed my politics as independent, in fact, a good Republican voter I have been. With the exception of 1952, when I was too young to register, I have voted for Richard Nixon every time he has run for national office. So what now brings about this seemingly radical change in my political behavior?

So why George McGovern? Most people believe he has only one issue, to end the Vietnam war. This is most unfortunate since his main objectives are directed toward far deeper problems pressing this nation and affecting every citizen. Senator McGovern has said the present government of the United States is no longer a government which serves or even responds to the needs of most Americans. It serves the needs of only a small powerful few and responds little to the majority.

So whom is our government serving, particularly since Richard Nixon became president? Nowhere is the answer more evident than in the assessment of federal income taxes. Senator McGovern has called it taxation without justice for working people. He has proposed not to take the wealth from the rich, but that income which wealth produces be taxed at rates more equal to the rates on income made by the job holder. Why should a man who has wealth (real estate, stocks, bonds, oil) of several million dollars which earns him an income of $200,000 or more a year pay little or no federal income taxes? Why should the job holder, the man who must work to support his family pay at higher rates, and often even more actual dollars in income taxes than the man whose income comes from his wealth. In 1970, there were 112 individuals with incomes over $200,000 who paid no federal income taxes.

Yet, the best evidence of whom the Nixon administration favors is the record itself. Who has gained in the last 3-1/2 years and who has lost? Since the President entered the White House, inflation has gone up a record 14.2 per cent and interest rates are the highest since the Civil War. Who profits from inflation and high interest rates? People with large holdings in real estate, stocks, bonds, and other assets of wealth. In other words, the rich. Who suffers from inflation and high interest rates? The job holder, the retired person, the farmer and small businessman, or more simply people with no great wealth who must work for an income. Large corporations have made their highest profits in history under Nixon. Yet in this same period, there has been the greatest number of small business failures and farmers driven from their land since the depression.

I voted for Richard Nixon in 1968, because he said he would end the war. Since he took office, 20,000 Americans have died in that war, and he has ordered the most inhuman bombing that man has known. Mr. Nixon has called himself a man of peace for making trips to Russia and China while men, women and children are dying by his decision to resume bombing. It is difficult to see how a small backward nation on the other side of the world could ever be a threat to our security. So as the war goes on and the wealthy continue to profit from it, the real threats of unemployment, poverty, inferior health care, crime, inflation, housing, and education continue to go unanswered.

In closing, I believe the following two experiences show best the character and leadership of Richard Nixon and George McGovern. After the invasion of Cambodia, young people protesting this policy, gathered at the White House requesting that the President hear them. Mr. Nixon retreated into the security of the White House and later related he was too busy watching pro football on T.V. to meet the young people. A few days later four students were killed in a similar protest gathering at Kent State University. In Miami, at the Democratic Convention, young people protesting George McGovern's views on Indo-China, went to his hotel and demanded a meeting. The Senator met with them, heard their views, and restated his policies. The young people left in peace without a single arrest.

On November 7, I will vote for George McGovern, I will do so because I love my country.

by TOBETTE SHAPIRO

I am a registered Democrat, now residing on the North Shore. Right now I am offended by my party's 1972 presidential campaign and its candidate.

Before the convention, I was invited to several of my party's caucus meetings, where I was considered as a possible delegate to Miami. When it became apparent that these caucuses were stacked by McGovernites, I decided to withdraw. I would not attend the final meeting, at which the delegates were chosen.

And the campaign has proved my decision to be correct.

The crude courting of the youth vote, the ethnic vote, the Jewish vote, the elderly citizens vote and the appeals to any other bloc which is considered vulnerable to a fairy tale group of promises is sickening to an American who has looked all her life to the Democratic Party for leadership.

Americans of different backgrounds are not herds of sheep to be sacrificed to satiate a man named McGovern who by now fights to be president for narcissistic reasons only.

I do not challenge this man's right to change his mind, but his opportunism is just too blatant. He swings from one recommended course of action to another so rapidly he is not able to cover his inadequacy for high office.

At our caucus meetings I was prepared to support Humphrey or Muskie about equally, because their positions were sound and dignified, yet with the empathy of people which would appeal to the common sense of the country. They did not put on an hysterical outer coat, dangerous to the future of the American heritage just to win a nomination.

I don't need or want a McGovern to put me in the position of begging for something less than what I now have. I can't see downgrading every aspect of the finest mankind has yet developed on this earth, just in hopes of gaining high office. And this is what this poor misguided man, McGovern, has done.

His actions forced me for the first time to examine, objectively what Richard Nixon has done. And I became impressed.

Isn't it strange that under Nixon 18 year old people now have the vote, and McGovern holds himself out to be the "youth" candidate?

I want our nation to pursue strong courses to strengthen our own economy, to quietly and effectively support previously downtrodden minorities, to deal realistically with those countries which have announced their implacable opposition to our way of life.

And when I look closely at these issues, what do I see? By God, Richard Nixon, a Republican, has been doing these things. And better than they have ever been done in our history.

So with more than a little mental anguish, I came to realize that I owe to my children and possible grandchildren a continuation of rationality and common sense in the Presidency for the next four years. I decided that my party has left me, and I must support Richard Nixon.

Yes, I want the war to end in Vietnam. I want all people in the world to have freedom. I want Utopia. But McGovern's way will, in the long run, take us further away from these goals.

I call upon all my true fellow Democrats to join with me in what is, in the truest sense of the word, a crusade. Work with "Democrats for Nixon" this year.

Palatine Parks: 'No' Vote

If the people of Palatine have any fiscal conscience at all they will defeat the proposed $1.4 million park district "boondoggle" October 14.

No one opposes a healthy, growing park system, and no one could oppose a forthrightly presented program of additions and improvements.

But — a $1.4 million program presented on an "all-or-nothing" basis is far too elaborate to be fiscally responsible. Working people have been taxed to the limit of human endurance; taxes alone at all levels of government consume 32 per cent of our G.N.P. This proposal, if passed, would raise the taxes of a modest home bp $15!

A proposal this large has no excuse for not being presented to the voters on an individual piecemeal basis. On the basis of cost alone the $900,000 Birchwood Park complex deserves individual deliberation, as do the proposals for the Sycamore, Doug Lindberg, Hunting Ridge and Morris Drive park proposals. The Community Park proposal deserves an indivdual spot on the referendum, and the Russet Way and Palatine Hills Recreation proposal could also be incorporated into a single issue. The $35,000 maintenance and storage facility should also be left to the voters individually.

Perhaps no other proposal, however, deserves the title "boondoggle" more than the proposed Palatine Trail. This little gem of planning would cost upwards of $190,000. It would run exclusively through Winston Park and the new northeastern subdivisions. The plan calls for an elaborate blacktopped trail through these areas, with only small unpaved "access paths" leading to the trail for the rest of the village. The taxpayer has an undeniable right to enjoy the fruits of his wisely spent tax dollar, therefore this proposal in particular is highly distasteful. I would hazard to guess that if 10 per cent of the people used this trail, if created, that would be a record.

All this, plus the fact that tax money has been used to print and mail an elaborate brochure to the public pushing this referendum.

I urge a big NO vote on Saturday, October 14.

Backs Merchants

With reference to a letter published on September 19 from Mr. V. K. Richter, 4-H Federation Advisor, Palatine, I wish to express my regrets that the downtown merchants were named as the "culprits" for their lack of support for the 4-H Ad book.

I have spoken to many of the merchants who resent the wholesale implication that they do not become involved and lend both moral and financial aid to the youth of Palatine. The "average merchant" is deeply involved, not only directly through his company's support, but also by contributing time and money to the various organizations which help to make Palatine what it is: A community vitally interested in its most important asset — youth!

Word A Day

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — At the annual meeting of Colossal Industries, Inc., the chairman tells shareholders "we are in a new era of corporate social responsibility."

Henceforth, the chairman insists, questions of environmental quality, education and health and equal opportunity in the community will be as important in Colossal's executive decision making as profits.

An hour later, one Colossal middle executive says to another: "Who's he kidding besides himself? If I get a promotion or a raise around here or an offer of a better job from another company it will be for one reason — because I've jacked up sales and profits over last year. The methods I use to jack 'em up may create some future headaches but I don't intend to be around to take the rap for 'em."

The foregoing is, in a nutshell, the most important problem facing American business today, says Dr. Melvin Anshen, the new Paul Garrett professor of public policy and business responsibility at Columbia University's graduate business school.

THE CHAIR WAS endowed with a $1 million gift from Paul Garrett, the scholarly 80-year-old ex-vice president for public relations of General Motors who started his career as a financial reporter for the New York Post.

"If business is to adapt the needs of social responsibility, then promotion of executives is going to have to depend on that as well as profits," Anshen said. "As soon as that happens we will see a steady change in the present cynical attitude of middle and junior executives towards corporate responsibility."

A Harvard graduate and former teacher of business administration at Carnegie Tech, now Carnegie-Mellon University and Indiana University, Anshen was on the side of corporate social responsibility long before he was chosen for the Garrett chair. He is a firm opponent of economists such as Milton Friedman of Chicago and Henry Manne of Rochester who talk about "the myth of corporate responsibility" and insist the only function of any business is to earn maximum profits by any legal means.

SOCIETY, Anshen says, is demanding new standards and new mechanisms for business and this creates a critical new area of activity for business schools — "the interface between business for profit and the society in which it functions."

As the first actual Garrett professor, Dr. Courtney Brown held the chair only in order to manage the search for a permanent appointee. Anshen must create the field of study for his graduate students.

He is giving thought to two areas. One is simply to get down to cases in teaching corporate social responsibility — to dwell on specific problems instead of generalities.

The other is to persuade accountants, educators and corporations to try to find a way to measure social achievements by business as well as profits. "There is no way at present, except for the capital outlays spent on it, to measure what a corporation is doing for itself and the public when it engages in large scale pollution control, for example," he said.

More Americans Putting Their Best Foot Forward

Nearly 6 million Americans have adopted what might be called their own semi-rapid transit system — they walk to work.

"The human foot is second only to the automobile as the most used means of transportation to and from the job," observes Sabino Marinella, president of Continental Investment Corp., Boston, Mass. Continental Investment is a national financial services and real estate-oriented company managing assets of more than $4 billion.

"There is still quite a gap between the 5.7 million workers who walk to and from their jobs and the 59.7 million who either drive or ride automobiles," Marinella said. "However, there are indications that the pedestrian trend will continue — even accelerate — during the remainder of this decade.

"A recent study shows that 4.2 million Americans ride buses and street cars to work. Subways and elevated commuter trains are used by 1.8 million workers, 502,000 rely on railroads, and an additional 296,000 depend on taxicabs for transportation to and from their jobs."

THERE ARE ABOUT 2.7 million working Americans, he notes, who do not have a transportation problem at all — they either work or have their offices in their homes.

"Several factors contribute to the rising number of workers who prefer to walk to work, especially those in the larger metropolitan centers. Apartment construction rates have been extremely high in these areas for the past three years and are just now beginning to level off. Centrally located apartment complexes have put millions of workers in closer proximity to their jobs — they naturally find it easier to walk to work.

"Further, there is the growing parking problem that exists in most large cities. Land for parking facilities is limited — and costly."

He adds that the pedestrian trend is also evident in the urban fringe and suburban areas. "The outward expansion of suburbia has not been limited totally to residential growth," Marinella continued. "Spacious new suburban industrial and office parks have attracted a growing number of businesses and industries. Many of these have relocated in the outlying areas where they have room to grow and expand. This suburban shift has put thousands of employes closer to their site of employment."

Harvester Selling Equipment To Poland

Representatives of International Harvester and Poland's BUMAR Foreign Trade Enterprise recently signed the final contract for the manufacture and sale of International construction equipment in Poland. The agreement was finalized in the Chicago office of Governor Richard B. Ogilvie.

An Illinois trade mission recently journeyed to Moscow, the governor said.

"We have plans to open a Hong Kong office shortly, and our Brussels and Washington offices have been functional for some time," he said.

The agreement will extend for a minimum of 10 years and covers the manufacture and sale of the International line of heavy crawler tractors equipped with bulldozers, loaders, and pipelaying equipment. Production is expected to start next year.

A New Agreement

A. B. Dick Co. announced that it has entered into a license agreement with International Business Machines Corp. in the field of non-impact jet ink printing.

Under the terms of the agreement, IBM is granted a non-exclusive royalty bearing license under A. B. Dick Company's current patent portfolio in this field. In turn, A. B. Dick Co. is granted rights under IBM's patents in the same field. Resulting royalty income is not expected to have a material effect on A. B. Dick Company's earnings in the near future.

A. B. Dick Company is a major international manufacturer and distributor of a broad line of duplicating, printing and copying equipment and related supplies.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

Look well at your fellow wage earners on the way to work tomorrow morning. You (as taxpayer) are paying the salaries of one in every five.

That will be the case if you're viewing a typical cross section of America's employed, for the Tax Foundation in its new study, "Unions and Government Employment," notes that one employed person in five is now working for government — federal, state or local.

The payroll for all these people was $110 billion in 1970, as compared to $45 billion in 1960. Behind the huge rise is not only a lot more people who are now government employes, but the fact that they are getting better wages than employes in private industry.

"AT THE federal level alone the average annual earnings of a civilian worker in 1970 were just about $3,000 higher than those of a private industry worker," the study by the nonprofit research organization reveals. Average earnings were $7,462 for all private employes and $10,597 for all federal civilian employes.

Does this suggest that there may be a built-in solution to the problem of mounting government payrolls? This may sound like desperation thinking, but we're ready to grasp at straws.

Since the pay is better, we can logically expect employes of private industry to gravitate toward government jobs. After a time, everyone will be working for the government.

We will then all be members of one great brotherhood (or personhood, if the Women's Libbers insist) — all government employes and all taxpayers. As taxpayers we will, of course, be resentful of government payroll increases that raise our taxes — and the next time Congress proposes to increase our pay we march on the capital, threatening Congress with the wrath of the voter if it raises our pay. End of problem.

Though it sounds perfectly logical we have a feeling that there may be a flaw in our reasoning. If anyone has any better solutions, we will gladly receive, consider and possibly publish them.

IF YOU are, despite the trends, a confirmed rugged individualist who would rather work for yourself than for the government, or even a private employer, Pat Wilbanks may have the formula you've been looking for.

Eight years ago she began a part-time typing and secretarial service in her home. Today she and her husband own and operate a large, successful letter shop and she now offers the benefit of her experience in a book, "How to Start a Typing Service in Your Own Home" (by Patricia M. Wilbanks; Arco Publishing Co.; large paperbound, $4), which should just now be reaching the bookstores.

It looks to be a thoroughly practical how-to book, starting with the kind of skills you need, and moving to the nuts and bolts of equipment and supplies and — most importantly — how to find customers and get their business.

And, just to prove that she can do it — or possibly because it was cheaper that way — she typed the entire text of the volume at home. Looks neat as can be.

"This beautiful Swiss watch is yours, free, when you switch to Union Heating Oil."

"All you need is a heating oil storage tank with at least a 200-gallon capacity—which is normal—located in the home heating oil delivery area of the Union Oil Company. Then you can get either watch free just for signing up for Union Oil's automatic heating oil delivery for the season.

"Already use Union Heating Oil? Get a friend to switch. I'll give both of you a beautiful Swiss calendar watch, in styles for men or women. That's all you do for the free watch.

"Here's how you save on heating oil bills too, and possibly reduce your overall heating costs. Get an exclusive 'Flame Control' oil burner through our Lease/Purchase plan. Our in-home tests show that the average home cuts fuel consumption by 14%, although one of my customers cut it by 40%, while another person only cut consumption by 3%. Your heating oil savings depend on the condition of your present oil burner as well as the price of the fuel you're using now.

"Call 242-4804 or fill out the coupon. Sign up for our automatic heating oil delivery and the beautiful Swiss watch is yours right now. Free. Offer expires November 10, 1972."

Equal Rights For Women

Now A Political And Legislative Issue

by DOROTHY OLIVER

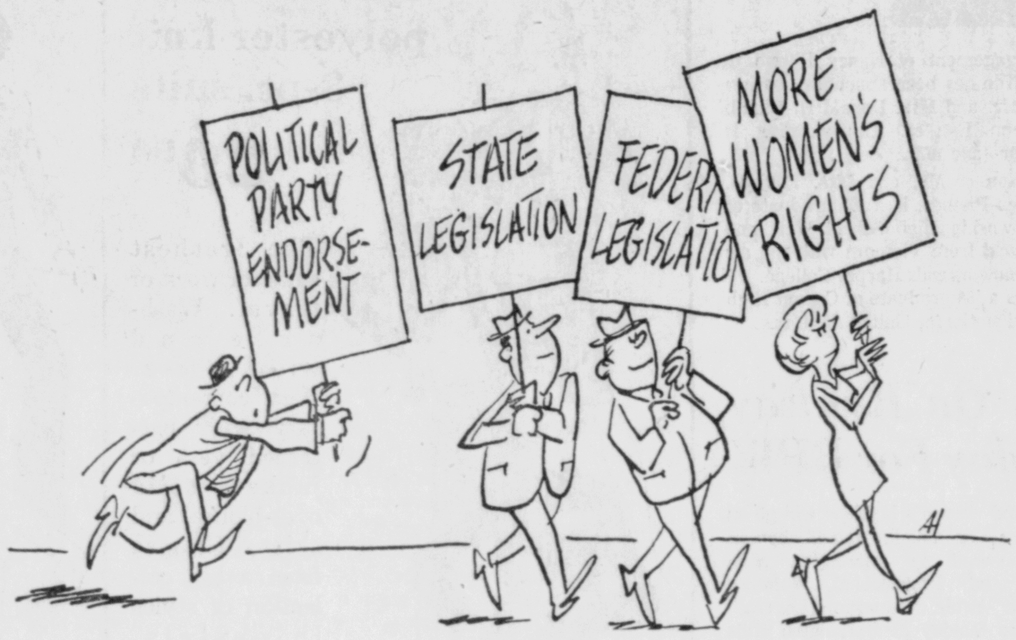

The power of the female vote is being felt strongly in national and state politics. The two major political parties indicated their awareness of that power when they drew up platforms for the November election.

Both Republican and Democratic national platforms endorse ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment; appointment of women to the highest level positions in the federal government including the cabinet and Supreme Court; equal pay for equal work; elimination of discrimination against women in federal government, in the criminal justice system, in sentencing, rehabilitation and prison facilities; increased opportunities for part-time employment and expanded training programs for women who want to re-enter the labor force; elimination of economic discrimination against women in credit, mortgage, insurance, property rental and finance contracts; and a strong statement in favor of child care.

THE DEMOCRATS added to their platform: elimination of discrimination against women in public accommodations, public facilities, public education and federally assisted programs; extension of the Civil Rights Commission to include denial of civil rights on the basis of sex; maternity benefits to working women; temporary disability benefits to cover pregnancy, etc.; elimination of tax inequities that affect women and children; retirement benefits for families with working wives, widows, women heads of households; deductions for working families for housekeeping and child care costs as business expenses; and federal grants for financing state commissions on the Status of Women.

Both parties also vowed to vigorously enforce all federal statutes and executive laws barring job discrimination on the basis of sex.

THE LARGEST number of women in history were delegates and alternates to both Democratic and Republican conventions. For the first time a woman, Ann Armstrong, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee and secretary of the 1972 convention, was a keynote speaker. Another woman, Jean Westwood, was selected as national chairman for the Democratic party.

What was printed in formal platform statements and what happened before television cameras on the convention floor is only half the story. Legislation affecting women is the other half.

Several proponents of women's rights, in both the U.S. House and Senate, have introduced a number of bills to equalize laws which affect women.

The Equal Rights Amendment, passed by Congress Oct. 12, 1971 and ratified by 21 states, needs to pass in 17 more states before it becomes law.

FEDERAL LEGISLATORS, while keeping their eyes on what is happening to the ERA back home, have turned their attention to other legislation.

Already passed into law and signed by President Nixon are the Equal Employment Opportunity bill, the Higher Education Bill and the Equal Pay Act, among others.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Bill extends authority of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) to enforce anti-discrimination laws in the federal courts. The bill also prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex in firms and unions with more than 15 employes, state and local government agencies and education institutions.

The Equal Pay Act requires the same pay for women as for men doing work which requires substantially the same skills, effort and responsibility. The firms, unions, agencies and institutions listed in the Equal Employment Opportunity Bill are included in the Equal Pay Act.

THE HIGHER EDUCATION Bill prohibits sex discrimination in federally assisted education programs, including both vocational education programs and public institutions of higher education.

Also passed were two bills banning sex discrimination against applicants to nursing and medical schools. Those schools which practice sex discrimination cannot receive federal grants and assistance.

Before the Congress adjourns Oct. 14 it is expected to act on the Social Security Amendments to the Welfare Reform Act and the Women's Equality Act of 1971.

The Social Security Amendments provide that widows and widowers are eligible for 100 per cent of the benefits the deceased spouse would be receiving if still living. They also eliminate requirements that divorced women show they were dependent on husbands for support to receive benefits. The amendments will be reported out of committee this week, but the fate of the bill is uncertain as the President has asked that the effective date of welfare reform be postponed one year.

THE WOMEN'S EQUALITY Act of 1970, introduced by Illinois Rep. Abner J. Mikva last June, amends all federal civil rights laws to provide equal rights for all citizens now denied their full rights because of their sex. The bill seeks to carry out the legislative recommendations of the Presidential Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities.

The bill would eliminate sex discrimination in all federally assisted programs, in state and federal employment, in employment in educational institutions, in the payment of wages for professional, executive and administrative jobs, and authorizes grants through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to finance state commissions to study the status of women.

This bill prohibits sex discrimination in public facilities, public education and public accommodations. It also requires that the Secretary of HEW make recommendations to equalize the treatment of women under the Social Security Act and Internal Revenue Code and the Family Assistance Act. In effect the equality act provides equal rights for women whether the Equal Sights Amendment is ratified or not.

STILL OTHER LEGISLATION has been introduced in Congress but the bills remain in committee and probably won't be acted on until the 93rd Congress convenes in January.

The Retirement Benefits for Housewives bill amends the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to make retirement benefits available to women able to put part of their household allowance into a savings account.

The Widows Benefits bill reduces from 20 to 10 years the time a woman must be married to collect dependent widows benefits from her husband or vice-versa.

The Ms. Bill prohibits any agency of the federal government from using any title in a name which indicates marital status.

THE WOMEN'S EDUCATION Act authorizes the Secretary of HEW to make grants to develop non-sexist textbooks and tests, non-discriminatory vocational education, career counseling and sports education.

At the state level the push for equal rights for women has slowed down. There was a flurry of activity last spring when a number of bills pertaining to credit, maternity benefits, day care, equal employment, marriage, divorce and abortion were being acted on. At the same time the Equal Rights Amendment was before the legislature for ratification.

Women made no significant gains. The majority of the bills either failed to pass, were tabled, remained in committee or were indefinitely postponed by their sponsors.

The ERA was put on "postponed consideration" in the House after its sponsors (which included Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights) realized they were seven votes short for passage. It had passed the Senate by one vote.

WHETHER OR NOT the ERA will again be called for consideration when the House reconvenes Nov. 26 will depend on "feelings after the election" according to Mrs. Chapman. The resolution will be re-introduced if the sponsors are sure it will be passed, she said.

If the ERA is not voted on before January, the measure will have to again go through committee hearings, floor readings and the vote.

The Democratic Party of Illinois included a strong statement in favor of ratification of ERA in its state platform. Democrats also favored the guarantee of equal opportunity to all persons.

The Republican Party of Illinois included a similar "human rights" clause in its platform. But though Republican Gov. Richard Ogilvie has endorsed ERA, the state party made no mention of the amendment in its platform.

Equal rights for women has become both a political and legislative issue. Women can have a say in their "legal future" by using female power in the voting booth and by keeping their viewpoints in front of their representatives.

Immigration Museum Tells Our History

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — A museum that tells the history of America through the history of its immigrants — and that's everybody from the Indians to the latest "greenhorn" — opened last month in the base of the Statue of Liberty.

The American Museum of Immigration has been 20 years in the making and some 2 million persons a year are expected to visit it. Among the first may be President Nixon, and certainly Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton, under whose aegis the National Park Service will operate the exhibits.

A visitor to the museum proceeds chronologically through the story of U.S. immigration — although those early Indians who are believed to have crossed the Bering Sea from Asia are represented only by a map. The story the displays tell —through more than 200 exhibits and dioramas, many with special voice and sound effects — begins with the first Europeans, the English at Jamestown, Va., and the Spanish in Florida and the Southwest.

THE FOCUS, HOWEVER, is on the century of immigration that began in the 1820s. In that 100 years some 34 million persons came to these shores. Who they were, individually and in groups, why they came and what they contributed, make up the story the museum tells.

Pierre S. duPont, president of the museum's board of trustees and one of those who has been working on the project for nearly 20 years, explained the reasons for it:

"The theme of the museum is the fact that the United States today — the fabric of the United States — is woven from a little piece here, there and elsewhere contributed by these various immigrant groups."

DuPont said the idea for the museum came some 20 years ago from William E. Baldwin, a pioneer New York public relations man in the 1920s and now a museum trustee.

IN 1954 THE American Museum of Immigration, Inc., was formed and began to work on the museum — which meant everything from getting government cooperation and a matching grant to soliciting donations from corporations, foundations, labor unions, ethnic associations and individual people, right down to school children from as far away as Guam.

The result was more than 10,000 donations, which along with the government grant yielded between $4 and $5 million. DuPont said it was difficult to arrive at the exact amount spent on the museum because the government contribution also was spent on other work involving the Statue of Liberty — including finishing its pedestal, something the United States had never got around to doing.

Speaking Of...

Books I Have Liked

by KAY MARSH

(First of two parts)

Who reads novels in the summer? Erudite book reviewers, apparently, if you can believe all their lists for "light summer hammock reading" or whatever. Not that those of us who are Mostly Mothers have anything against hammocks or reading. It's just that summer is our busiest season, what with sweeping out sand, retrieving damp bathing suits and thinking up new reasons why the children can't sponsor a backyard carnival for charity.

But then comes the changing of the guard and the kids go back to school — finally. Here in October, after you've conquered the urge to fall clean and before you start Christmas shopping, is every mother's brief "off" season, and your best chance to read a book or so for fun. And here to inspire you is a list of novels that you might like to consider. Most are fairly recent; most are available in paperback; and all these mentioned today are noteworthy from a woman's point of view. But what they really have in common is that I and one or more friends enjoyed reading them, and think that you might, too.

1. "MRS. BENEKER" by Violet Weingarten (1967). Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but most of us with a certain degree of maturity opt for Mrs. Beneker in her protean roles as wife, mother, daughter and grandmother. Her problems are our problems, or at least they could be. Is it morally right to take hormone pills? Should she give her son's girl the money for an abortion? When she has so much, why can't she enjoy it? Mrs. Beneker seeks answers in an adult education class, but finds them mostly within herself. Meeting every crisis with charm, sympathy, strength and humor, Lila Beneker triumphs in that she refuses to give in to despair or surrender to future shock. She is, in short, a heroine: probably the only middle-aged one in current literature, and certainly the warmest and the funniest. If Mrs. Beneker lifts your spirits as she always does mine, you might also enjoy reading the author's "A Loving Wife" (1969) and/or her latest, "A Woman of Feeling."

2. "THEY" by Marya Mannes (1968). "Mrs. Beneker" is a novel you read to cheer you up; "They" is not. This novel describes an imaginary near-future when "they" (the young) force everyone into retirement and exile at 50, cut off from any interchange with those under 50 (including their own children). Anyone who manages to live to 65 can choose self-disposal or compulsory liquidation. "They" tells of the final years of five creative old people, isolated from everybody except each other. The conjectures are fascinating (if chilling) and the novel makes a passionate plea for the humanistic values many of us still cherish.

3. "IN THIS SIGN" by Joanne Greenberg (1970) deals sensitively with yet another kind of segregation: the isolation of the deaf in a world of hearing. Abel and Janice Ryder were born deaf and communicate by signing. But it is through their normal daughter, Margaret, that we share their struggles in our strange and hostile world. This is a consciousness-raising book in that you not only learn with your mind but also feel in your heart the special terrors, and the special strengths, of those who live their lives with all the terrifying sounds of silence. (You might also enjoy this author's "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden" and her recently published "Rites of Passage.'")

4. "THE BELL JAR" by Sylvia Plath. Sylvia Plath is, of course, the poet who is currently practically canonized by her ardent advocates. However, you don't have to be a feminist or a cultist to find genius and a singular eloquence in her poems, or to appreciate this novel based on the author's own breakdown, suicide attempt and hospitalization. First published shortly before Sylvia Plath's death by suicide in 1963, "The Bell Jar" offers both a moving account of one young woman's tragedy and new insights into the free-floating rage and despair that often seem so inexplicable in women who came of age in the frustrating '50s.

5. "GOD IS AN ENGLISHMAN" by R. F. Delderfield (1970). If by now you're in the mood for a good old-fashioned novel with action, suspense, romance, et cetera, then treat yourself to this one. While most reviewers concentrate on Adam Swann's battles and success, you'll be just as fascinated with his wife. Though very much married and maternal, she somehow manages to achieve considerable autonomy and self-realization, even in Victorian England. All of Delderfield's novels that I've read, by the way, are well-written, tightly plotted and engrossing to read, Enjoy, enjoy!

ON A BICYCLE built for two Mrs. William J. Kelly and Mrs. Donald Van Gorp deliver tickets for the Clearbrook Brunch. The brunch, set for Sunday, Oct. 15, will be held in the Jimmy Durante Room of Arlington Park Towers. The Clearbrook Symphony, a group of local musicians under the direction of Jim Mason, Arlington Heights, will again furnish the music for this ninth annual brunch. Mrs. Van Gorp can be reached at 259-6479 for tickets.

Jackie Oder Pulls A Lot Of Weight

by GAY PAULEY

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Jackie Oder, five feet three and 125 pounds, travels the open road with 72,000 pounds of gross weight as her responsibility.

Mrs. Oder drives her own tractor-trailer rig transcontinentally solo except for a seven-pound dachshund companion and is one of the few women in this traditionally masculine world.

"I haven't run into any resentment from men," she said. "There's a great fraternity among those on the road. The men know this is a tough job and I'm doing a good job."

As for that lightweight female pulling tons around, she said, "You don't need a lot of muscle, just tensile strength. And I don't hustle freight. The terminals load my cargo."

Even so, the statistics are amazing for the 48-year-old woman who went into truck driving three years ago to keep faith with her second huspand, Robert, an Air Force career man killed on his third tour in Vietnam. The couple had planned to become a driving team when he retired.

MRS. ODER'S RIG, manufactured by White Motors, represents an investment of $45,500. It's 40 feet long, weighs 32,000 pounds and can pack a freight load of 40,000 pounds.

We talked while her westbound cargo was being loaded at the Brady Motorfrate terminal in Jersey City. She has long term lease on her rig to Brady. The load headed to Omaha, Neb., was a mixture of commodities, but her West to East run from Omaha always is beef or pork, she said.

Mrs. Oder logs about 12,000 miles per month most of it night driving, clears about $1,100 per month, and said the longer she drives the better she likes the job.

"I don't know of other women driving solo," she said, "but there are increasing numbers of husband-wife teams on the road. Most truck stops realize this and are providing things like shower facilities for women too."

MRS. ODER, who now calls Sioux City, Iowa, her home, is of Irish ancestry but was born in China where her father was in the U.S. Navy. Leading the life of the military brat and later married into the military, she has lived all over the United States and western Europe.

She studied law at the University of Madrid and also attended the University of Maryland and Central Tech in Kansas City.

The driver is an expert horsewoman, used to drive racing cars, is a member of the International Sky Divers Association and she also motorcycles.

"I met my second husband when I hit him with a motorbike in San Francisco," she recalled. "He stepped off a curb in my path."

HIS DEATH in 1966 in Vietnam left her alone — four children from her two marriages are dead — except for her many interests and the promises to him that if anything happened she'd use some of the insurance to invest in a rig.

In summer, Mrs. Oder travels in shorts and shirts or miniskirts for a feminine look. In winter, it's usually tailored western pants with shirts and boots.

A Sunny Garden Wedding

A bright sun smiled on the garden wedding of Linda Ellen Burgeson of Chicago and Robert Richard de Jonge Jr. of Mount Prospect. The Rev. Mark G. Bergman performed the four o'clock nuptials Sept. 9 in the garden of the Robert de Jonge home at 604 S. George St., which was decked with colorful mum plants and other garden flowers surrounded by natural greenery.

In the midst of the setting was an altar made up of four white mum plants on white iron stands, along with a five-foot candelabra trimmed with lilies of the valley, stephanotis and white ribbons.

THE BRIDE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burgeson, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Carol Trawinski of South Holland, as matron of honor. Mrs. Trawinski's daughter Cathy Lynn, 3, was flower girl, and bridesmaids included Joan Fitzgerald, Rock Island; Bonnie Boersma, Chicago; and the groom's sister Deborah.

The groom chose his father as best man, with Mike Ryan, Mount Prospect; a cousin, Bill de Jonge Jr. of Chicago; and Tom Hannasch, Wheaton, as groomsmen.

The bride wore a white voile gown with swiss embroidery and imported lace accents. At the Victorian neckline she wore an antique cameo and over her hair a crown of fresh flowers. The same variety of pink tea roses, bachelor buttons, white daisies and baby's breath, were in her bouqnet.

LINDA'S ATTENDANTS were gowned alike in pastel pink long-sleeved blouses trimmed in swiss lace and long floral printed skirts in pink, burgundy and white. Each of the girls wore a burgundy velvet choker with a cameo pin on it and carried a nosegay of pink daisies, baby's breath and ferns.

The little flower girl wore a short pink dotted swiss dress trimmed with white lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Robest de Jonge Jr.

The de Jonge residence was decorated with bouquets of lilies of the valley, stephanotis and greenery and white candles throughout the house. To wish the Swedish bride good luck, Mr. and Mrs. de Jonge had a floral piece of sheaves of wheat, lilies of the valley and stephanotis standing at the entrance of their home.

THE GARDEN was lighted with scores of tiny votive cup candles in various colors for the evening reception. A buffet dinner for 130 guests was served there highlighted by a wedding cake topped with a waterfall flowing in blue.

The newlyweds honeymooned at Lake Geneva and Wisconsin Dells and are now living in Champaign where Linda is a senior at the University of Illinois. Bob is a graddate of Prospect High School and a '72 graduate of Illinois. He is now a chemist with the Environmental Protection Agency in Champaign.

Newlyweds Choose Health Careers

Health careers are the choice of newlyweds Patricia and Richard S. Atwater. Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Atwater, 5 W. South St., Arlington Heights, received his B.S. degree in psychology from Illinois State University, Normal, and is now with Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dahlgren, Marengo, Ill., studied sociology for 2½ years at Illinois State and will soon begin inhalation therapy training at Cook County Hospital.

Married at 7 p.m. Aug. 26 in Marengo First Presbyterian Church, the newlyweds greeted friends at a reception in Marengo VFW Hall before leaving for Long Lake, Wis., for a week's honeymoon at the Crows Nest Resort.

Maid of honor for the candlelight, double ring service was Elizabeth Reichel, Indianapolis, and bridesmaids were Danae Flessner, Champaign, Joan Stevenson, Peoria, Judy Cuddle, Chicago, and the bride's sister, Tammy Dahlgren, Marengo.

Best man was Millard McDonald, Belvidere, and ushers were T. J. Brockway, Doug Maffziggek, and Larry Closen, Peoria, and the groom's brothers, Mark and Lee Atwater, Arlington Heights.

Patricia and Richard are making their home in an apartment at 300 N. Brockway, Palatine.

Church Sponsors Abortion Seminar

A seminar entitled "Abortion, the Reality" will be sponsored by St. Emily's Church, 1400 E. Central Road, Mount Prospect, on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the meeting room in the school basement.

The program is part of Respect Life Week, Oct. 1-8, announced by the Archdiocese of Chicago. Its purpose is to focus attention on the dignity of life and to encourage study of the important topic of abortion.

Guest speakers will be Mrs. Marcy Sneed, vice president of the Illinois Right to Life Committee, and Dr. John McKeon, a specialist in obstetrics and gynecology. Included on the program will be a movie, "The Committee." A question and answer session will follow the presentation.

Invitations have been sent to more than 60 churches, Catholic and non-Catholic alike, and the seminar is open to all interested people. There will be no charge.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

All of us experiment with the wide variety of "store-bought" coffeecakes, and many occasionally try our own kinds at home. Our daughter has come up with one of these that is admittedly rich, but worth forgetting one's diet for. Cream ¼ pound of margarine (or butter) with 1 cup of sugar. Add 2 eggs, one at a time, mixing all the while. Then add 1 cup of sour cream; 1 teaspoon baking soda; 1½ cups of flour sifted with 3 teaspoons of baking powder; and 2 teaspoons of vanilla.

Grease an 8x8 inch pan, at least 3 inches high, or a more shallow 8x10. Pour half of the batter into the pan and sprinkle with a mixture of ½ cup of finely chopped nuts, ½ cup of sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon — reserving about one-third for the final topping. Add remaining batter, sprinkle with the reserved nut mixture and bake for 40 to 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

Dear Dorothy: Closet space in an apartment is always at a premium, expecially when you've just moved from a large house. Saw a picture in a magazine showing shelves added to one side of the closet, thus adding usable space. It prompted me to improvise. We had a table 18 inches high with no particular spot for it so I put it in the closet against the wall, arranged my shoes under it and was able to stack two suitcases and two boxes on top. I'm kind of smug about the whole deal.—Geraldine M.

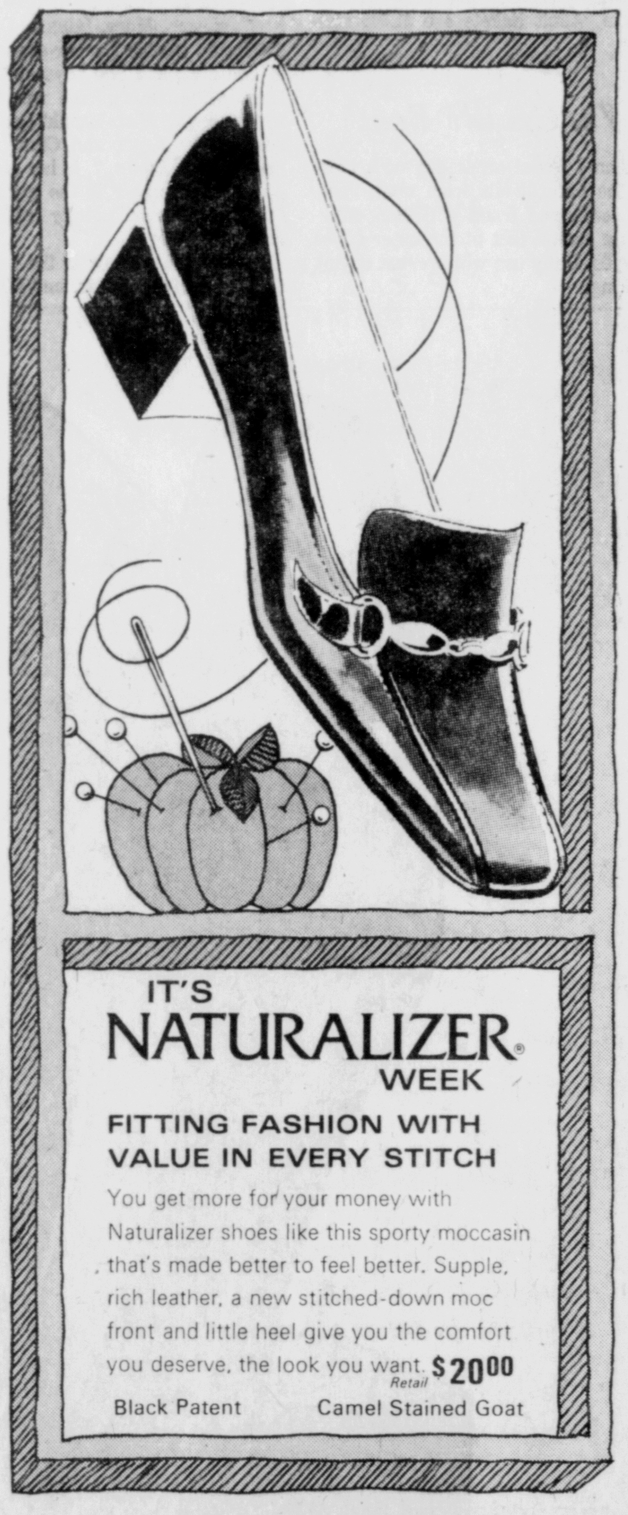

Dear Dorothy: Do you know what the term "proten" in connection with meat means?—Sally B.

The "proten" process means papain is injected into cattle just before slaughtering. It's a form of meat tenderizing. Papain comes from the papaya fruit and is widely used as a meat tenderizer.

For A Happy Life

It's Fun in October To:

1. Keep it a secret if you are trying to lose weight.
2. Have a family photograph taken as Christmas gifts for your parents and in-laws.
3. Make some decisions on what kinds of clothes are most becoming to you.
4. Buy some birthday cards to have on hand.
5. Note how much time you spend on the telephone in a week.
6. Keep some small coins hidden in your auto for parking meters.
7. Spend one evening all by yourself doing just what pleases you.
8. Note this old saying: "Gather the crumbs of happiness and they will make you a loaf of contentment."

Here's How To Announce Engagement In The Herald

Paddock Suburban Living department is often called by those seeking information on submitting announcements for publication. We print the following for the reader's information and help.

The announcement of an engagement is always made by the parents of the engaged girl, who may either fill out an engagement form at our office or submit their own information along with a wallet sized picture of the bride-to-be.

If a wallet sized photograph is not available, a larger one can be used.

Bring or mail picture and copy to the Herald office in Arlington Heights or our Des Plaines office.

Parents not using one of our forms may either write or type the information. If the announcement is submitted in hand-writing we ask that all names be printed to avoid errors. We also request that a phone number accompany the signature at the bottom of the announcement.

A glossy picture is preferable although a dull finish is acceptable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors depending on contrast and depth of color.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. Usually they will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

Items include furniture, skis, games, toys, old glass and antiques.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

"Trash to Treasures" is the title of the annual rummage sale of West Suburban Region of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training). It will be held two days, Thursday and Friday, at Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Road. Hours are 9a.m. to 3 p.m. both days.

Donated articles are coming from many of the ORT's 500 region members. Proceeds will go toward maintaining high school and junior college courses in the ORT schools in fourteen countries.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

"Six on the Sixth" is a nutshell description of the Arlington Heights Nurses Club fund-raising sale this fall.

There will be six garage sales throughout the village on Friday and Saturday. Hours at all locations are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday; 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

The following club members have opened their homes for the sales: Mrs. Fret Hartman, 816 N. Gibbons; Mrs. Robert Karlicek, 1512 E. Campbell; Mrs. Douglas Jackson, 1509 N. Harvard; Mrs. Nicholas Raino, 436 S. Lincoln Lane; Mrs. James Butkus, 911 N. Evergreen; and Mrs. Richard Cowan, 505 S. Reuter.

Donated items are being accepted at all the locations.

Among the special attractions are a pair of ski boots, cuddly kittens and two puppies, gift certificates at discounted prices, and gift items from various shops in Arlington Heights.

BUFFALO GROVE

Buffalo Grove Little League Football mothers are holding a bake sale Saturday at Buffalo Grove Mall from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Proceeds will help pay for football equipment.

Anyone wishing to donate baked goods may call Mrs. Ronald Eigel, 537-3755, or the goodies can be brought to the Mall Saturday by 9 a.m.

STUFFED TOYS AND GAMES for the Harvest Bazaar at the First United Methodist Church of Palatine draw smiles from Kendall and Kerry Easton. Mrs. Charles Simons is a chairman of Saturday's sale at the church hall, 123 N. Plum Grove, from 9 to 5. Luncheon will be served from 11 to 2. There will be floral arrangements, handmade clothing, baked goods and children's items.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Handmade greeting cards, decoupage pictures and purses, gifts for children, Christmas decorations and handmade clothing accessories will be sold Saturday during an open house boutique at Westgate School, 1211 W. Grove. The sale is part of the PTA's Charlie Brown Fun Fair.

Hours for the boutique are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

ROLLING MEADOWS

An all-day flea market is set for Saturday in St. Colette Church hall in Rolling Meadows. The sale includes an arts and crafts show. Hours are 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

There will be over seventy tables of items for sale, covering home accessories, holiday decorations, food, clothing and cosmetics.

HOFFMAN ESTATES

Hoffman Estates Woman's Club is sponsoring a flea market Sunday at the old village hall, 161 Illinois Blvd., from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Clubs in the area have signed up for booths to display their wares, and the club itself will operate a Junque Shoppe, refreshment stand, baked goods booth and a Kiddie Korner.

A pancake breakfast is a special attraction this year. Serving will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Adult tickets are $1.50; children, $1.

Oil Vs. Crow's Feet

Occasional facial massages with baby oil, or the natural oils from nuts, vegetables, seeds and fruits will help eliminate little crow's feet at the outer edges of the eyes. Daily use will prevent drying and flaking.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP Women's Republican Club annually donates books to Wheeling, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights libraries. This year's book, "August, 1914," a novel about the Russian Revolution by Alexander Solzhenitsyn, was donated during a tea held last week in honor of candidates and their wives. Mrs. Conrad Fothergill, Vice President Mrs. Richard C. Dye and Mrs. Gerald I. Brask, a past president of the group, were among the women at the tea.

Conversation, Cards

Beaux and Belles of St. Mary Church, Buffalo Grove, will hold an afternoon of "Conversation and Cards" from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Thursday. Also on the program, the first of the season, will be the Trillium Singers, and refreshments.

The general public is invited and donation is $1.25. The group is sponsored by the St. Mary's Woman's Club.

Luminous Glow

A little baby powder mixed with regular everyday eye shadow will give a luminous glow to convert the same shadow for evening wear.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband is phychosomatic. We cannot sit down and discuss our problems like most married couples do, because if he doesn't agree with me instead of saying so, he will get seriously ill. Several times I have had to rush him to the hospital. I have been told that it is in his mind but it could be fatal and it has been suggested to him that he see a psychiatrist, but he has refused. Would you please explain more about this as to what it is and what can be done.

Dear Reader— Psychosomatic refers to the fact that the mind (psycho) and the body (soma) both work together in maintaining our health or being affected by illness. Anxiety on an emotional basis for example, can cause severe diarrhea or constipation. Long standing anxiety can cause increased acid secretions in the stomach and lead to ulcers.

Somatic or medical illness can in turn cause anxiety. A person who has leukemia has every reason to have anxiety and so does the woman who has cancer of the breast. Then you have the problem of an individual who has severe heart disease caused by medical illness such as fatty deposits in the arteries to the heart. If he becomes angry during an emotional crisis, this can increase the work of his heart and cause other changes that may even cause a heart attack and has been known to cause death.

Thus the term psychosomatic really means you just can't separate the mind from the body or the body from the mind.

Your letter suggests to me that an emotional crisis with your husband seriously affects the function of his body, causing pain or disability. The body usually functions better in the presence of emotional health and freedom from anxiety or emotional conflicts. Psychiatrists are often successful in helping free people from anxiety and emotional conflicts, which in turn improves their physical health.

The suggestion that your husband see a psychiatrist is a sound one. He is no different from other people except that his reaction is apparently more severe and disabling. All of us are affected emotionally by our health and our health is affected by our emotions.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My friends and I eat lots of lemons on salads and juices and just plain with just salt on them. Now we're told that they "thin" your blood, and like eggs and chocolate, are constipating. Since there are many "lemon fans" around, please comment.

Dear Reader — In a word, nonsense. Lemons are excellent food but of course like all other foods, shouldn't be used to the exclusion of other important food elements. Some individuals with specific medical problems like ulcers, might not be able to tolerate a lot of lemon juice just as they can't tolerate other fruit or acid foods. None of the things that you list, lemons, eggs or chocolate are constipating.

LOCATION AND DESIGN APPROVAL REQUEST

Notice is hereby given to all interested persons that approval of the Location and Design for the improvement of Palatine Road, from Winston Drive to Williams Drive, as presented in the Village Hall of Palatine, on January 21, 1971, has been requested from the Federal Highway Administration.

The proposed improvement of Winston Drive to Williams Drive consists of two lanes in each direction, separated by a four foot median. The median is widened to 14 feet at the intersection of Winston Drive in order to provide separate left turn storage lanes. The frontage roads are set back in all four quadrants and Winston Drive is divided by a four foot median providing the proper channelization for this intersection.

Maps, drawings and other information pertinent to the determination of the Location and Design of the improvement are available for public inspection at the office of the Illinois Department of Transportation, Northeast Transportation Region, 300 N. State Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60610.

From A Victim To A Mugger

It Should Happen To You

by TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — An open letter to the man who tried to mug me in Milwaukee:

I can't really figure out, my friend in the tennis shoes, what it was you wanted from me the other evening on Wisconsin Avenue. I was going to my hotel. You were lounging on the bridge over the city center river. You stopped me, asked if I had any change to spare, I said all right and reached into my pocket for a quarter.

Hell, now, man, I was being decent enough. I was responding. I was granting the beg. Why then did you grab my arm? I've been through these things before. I've been bummed and bamboozled from Boston to Bombay. If you were pulling a stick-up, why didn't you say it? If you were looking for a hassle, why didn't you just swing?

You didn't, of course, hang around long enough to determine the outcome of our little altercation. When I jerked away from your grab, I fell back in a sharp twist and you disappeared, like your ilk does, into the shadows. So I'm writing you in this public way to explain, though you may care not, what it's like to be one of your victims.

ACTUALLY, THE confrontation itself didn't faze me. I once had to outrun and outhide a knife-carrying junkie on New York City's lower east side, so a chap like you, armed only with tennis shoes, doesn't particularly make my blood chill. But a few hours after our meeting I discovered you had given me something besides a bad memory. It was 3 a.m. in my hotel room. I had to get up to go to the bathroom. I pushed up from the sheets, felt a terrible pain, lost my breath, then fell out of bed in a roll. It was my back. My lower back. The physicians call the area the lumbar region. It hurt so much my stomach turned and I vomited on my suitcase.

I tried to stand. I couldn't. I tried to get back in bed. I couldn't. I pushed myself to my hands and knees, a position were the pain subsided, and crawled into the bathroom. There, using the fixtures as props, I relieved myself.

I forget, exactly, what happened next. I was still drowsy. I think I started to put my clothes on, but found I could neither reach the hangers or, more basically, fit the socks over my feet. So, back to bed. I managed to mount the mattress, on this second try, with a combination roll and pitch and a few choice words of desperation.

I TRIED then, by phone, to get some help. The phone card said dial 5 for medical assistance. I did but nobody answered. I dialed for the bellman after that, but he was asleep too, apparently. I finally did get the hotel operator, after a dozen rings, and she said sure enough the hotel employed a doctor, not full time, but he would probably be in his office in the morning and was there anything else I wanted.

I said yes, what's the number for Mount Sinai Hospital? She said just a minute, for gosh sakes, a bit peeved, quoted 271-2174, and hung up. I called her back and said, lady, I'm having trouble with my back, could you please dial Mount Sinai for me. She sighed, "Jeeeeeze," like she had a lot to do at 3 a.m., dialed it, but nobody answered.

Convinced by this time the Gods were against me, I said to hell with it I'll ride it out. Maybe it'll go away. It didn't. And I lay there, wide awake, until 8 a.m.

I CALLED the hotel doctor that morning. He was home. He said he didn't get to his office until 10. He sounded, if I may say so, like the original Dr. Gillespie and from his voice I placed his age at about 127. I told him, groaning, that I had this bad back and I wondered what I should do. He said he didn't really know. Honest to God he did. He said if I wanted to I could wait until he got in his office at 10, "about."

I tried several other doctors by phone. Five to be exact. Three were out. Two would not take me: "Have you been a patient here before? Well, in that case. . ."

I dressed then. Don't ask me how. (One secret: If you are on all fours, you can knock your clothes down from their hangers by flipping a towel). I begged a set of crutches from the hotel (after the front desk originally said the house didn't have any), and creeped and slid my way down to the lobby to take a taxi to the hospital.

I FELT OUT of place at the hospital. The emergency ward at Mount Sinai, like most such inner city horrors, is a repository for all of the terrible weaknesses of the human body. An old man sucking for life through an oxygen mask; a young woman nursing cuts and bruises about her face; a gal sitting in a wheelchair, head in hands, beginning, for reasons nobody asked, to weep. In this lineup I felt as serious as a hangnail. But I still could not sit, bend, walk without listing; at times the stabs were so bad my eyes watered; and so I asked for help, and was given it quite promptly.

Never mind the details of the examination. Never mind my thoughts as I lay for an hour waiting the results of tests and X rays. Suffice it to say I mused unkind things about you, my friend in tennis shoes, and even about all those who were bustling about me, healthy, without pain, yakking away as if all was right with the world.

As it happened, my worry and bad thoughts were premature. My tests were positive. As I write this, it appears, I shall recover, hopefully with no permanent damage.

And now I want to be charitable, my friend in the tennis shoes. I want to think that you are not all to blame for what you did. I want to think that you must be underprivileged or desperate or whatever it is that creates creeps in this nation. But I confess I'm having difficulty with my sympathies. As I sit here, filled with dope but still hurting like hell, I must say, you bum, that next time it should happen to you.

Morton, Olson Leaders

by GENE KIRKHAM

For the first time since the season started three teams scored seven point victories in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

When the night's action at Beverly Lanes ended Morton Pontiac and Des Plaines Ace Hardware remained tied for first place with 22 points each.

Morton Pontiac led the scoring with games of 986, 1011, and 999. Their season high 2996 team series enabled them to sweep seven points from the Bank of Rolling Meadows.

Morton's Bob Glaser, individual average leader, led his team with a 629 series which included games of 224 and 236. Bill Smith and Ernie Koche each contributed 600's to the Morton cause. Smith had 606 with 219 and 202 while Koche fired 205 and 214 for an even 600 series.

Irv Hahnfeldt of Bank of Rolling Meadows rolled 201 and 224 for a 614 series.

Des Plaines Ace Hardware earned their share of first place by defeating PCTL No. 2 each of the three games and the series. Des Plaines won the second game 907 to 903, a scant four pins, and went on to settle the third game by 31 pins and win the series 2756 to 2665.

Hoffman Lanes also scored a seven

Cub Quiz: Can You Finish 2nd?

THE FINAL DAY of the irregularly-scheduled professional baseball season — vintage 1972. It must seem like the campaign started only yesterday for teams like Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Oakland and Detroit or Boston.

But for others, like our Chicago Cubs, the abbreviated season consumed an eternity of patterned anticipation-frustration, always in that order.

The season was so long in fact, that a few Cub highlights (there weren't many more than that) may have been forgotten.

If you can afford just five minutes of time while you are preparing to storm Wrigley Field for the last time this year, this multiple guess quiz may help to refresh or painfully remind you of what you will and have been watching this season.

Take your time.

Choose only the answer that best completes each sentence or question. And keep your eyes on your own paper.

The solution already appeared on the Oct. 1 nighttime version of Sesame Street when the show was sponsored by the letters A, B and C and the number: second.

1. The Cubs traditionally play their best ball:
   A) In March.
   B) In October.
   C) At home at night.

2. The Cubs' magic number for the 1972 pennant is:
   A) -12.
   B) 1986 (A.D.).
   C) 10 (trade him)

3. Fergie Jenkins is in a class by himself because:
   A) No one throws more gopher balls.
   B) Martha Raye and Joe E. Brown are retired.
   C) It says so in the secret envelope in his locker.

4. The Cubs could get Johnny Bench for:
   A) Ron Santo and a team to be named later.
   B) All of the above.
   C) Both A and B.

5. The Cubs' slogan next year will be:
   A) Break up the Pirates.
   B) Bring on the Padres.
   C) Rain is the key in '73.

6. The Cubs will bolster their bullpen with:
   A) Drinking fountains.
   B) More ivy and vines.
   C) More bull.

7. Cub home attendance dropped this year because:
   A) The drive to Comiskey Park is better.
   B) The drive to Pittsburgh is better.
   C) The drive to a pennant is better.

8. Billy Williams will win the Cubs' MVP Award:
   A) Unanimously.
   B) Hands down.
   C) By forfeit.

9. Dissention will reappear in the Cub clubhouse when:
   A) Jim Hickman, Billy Williams and Ernie Banks get into a shouting match.
   B) P.K. Wrigley finds out Fergie Jenkins chews Bazooka.
   C) Joe Pepitone's hair dryer shorts out Ron Santo's portable pizza oven.

10. The Chicago Cubs' Team Spirit Award will be presented to:
   A) Ferguson Arthur Humble Jenkins.
   B) Joe Pepitone at his annual retirement dinner.
   C) Versatile Milt Pappas who can say "I, me, my and mine" both in English and in Greek.

11. Ron Santo could have led the league in home runs this year if:
   A) He stopped swinging for singles.
   B) He rubbed pine tar on the other end of the bat.
   C) He wore a boxing rather than a golf glove.

12. The refrain from "Hey, Hey, Holy Mackeral" will be changed to:
   A) Hey, Hey, Holy Carp.
   B) Hey, Hey, We'll Get 'Em Tomorrow.
   C) Hey, Hey, Wait 'Till Next Year.

13. Wrigley Field will become a modern, electronic stadium if it is:
   A) Demolished and rebuilt.
   B) Dismantled and rebuilt.
   C) Destroyed and rebuilt.

14. Ron Santo didn't click his heels in the air after a Cub home win because:
   A) Spike wounds smart.
   B) He didn't have many opportunities.
   C) He was saving it for the playoffs.

15. Whitey Lockman is hoping to beef up his offense by instituting the:
   A) Wishbone.
   B) Fast break.
   C) 16-Inch softball.

16. The Cubs will be active in the winter draft if they:
   A) Leave the clubhouse door open.
   B) Leave a window ajar.
   C) Leave an air-conditioner on.

17. The 1972 Cubs will best be remembered for:
   A) 1971.
   B) Their willingness to gamble with youth to build a future world champion.
   C) Their unique mannerisms that made this sarcastic quiz possible.

Isobel Kosi's 609 Paces Women

Striking Lanes Enjoys Top Night

by GENE KIRKHAM

The Paddock Women's Traveling Classic League showed its ability at Beverly Lanes as 27 girls rolled 500 or better series, including two 600's.

Striking Lanes led the team scoring with games of 973, 926, and 931 for a 2830 season high team series.

Alice Schroder led her Striking team with 587 which include a 212 game. Lu Schoenberger fired 222 and 569, Eunice Whitmore rolled 220 and 567, Judy Croston fired 565 and Bette Brelle 214 and 542 all for Striking Lanes.

With all of this the Striking team could do no better than win three of seven points as their opponents, Franklin-Weber Pontiac, fired 931 to win the second game by five pins and 940 to win the third game by nine pines.

Franklin-Weber was led by Lee Winski's 591 series which included 202 and 211 games. Marge Lindenberg fired 228 and 597, Joan Plywack fired 569 and Betty Peterman rolled 535 in this high scoring match.

L-Tran Engineering continued to lead the league as they defeated Morton Pontiac 6-1 in another hard fought contest.

Isobel Kosi rolled games of 187, 201, and 221 for a 609 series which is the season's high individual effort. Also for L-Tran Lorrie Koch fired 213 - 578 and Toshi Inahara rolled 502.

Ruth Baurhyte of Morton led her team with 204, 182, and 212 for a 598 series. Emily Dragoon fired 561 and Jan Broderick rolled 509 for Morton as the two teams tied the first game 839 to 839. The last two games and the series went to L-Tran.

Thunderbird Country Club swept the series with Arlington Park Towers, winning the third game by only five pins. The Thunderbird girls had four 500's as Jean Ladd led with 541. Mary Yurs had a 213 game and a 533 series, Dee Kachelmuss had 201-522 and Marge Carlson had 505. For Arlington Park Nan Hoffman fired 533 as Peggy Wales and Donna

Isobel Kosi

Lohse rolled 524 and 516.

Peggy Harris fired 181, 188, and 233 for a 602 series for the only other 600 in the league this season. She led her Hoffman Lanes team to a five point victory over Doyle's-Des Plaines Lanes. Joan Christensen helped out with a 535 as her team won the third game by only six pins and the series point by nine.

Top scorer for Doyle's was Winnie Lohse with 229 and a 560 series. Delores Harris had 553 while Nancy Porcelius rolled a 504.

Only six pins separate the individual average leaders as Peggy Harris leads with 187.8. Lorrie Koch has 187.6 and Lu Schoenberger has 187.2.

Next Saturday at Rolling Meadows Bowl it will be Hoffman Lanes vs. Striking Lanes, Morton Pontiac vs. Thunderbird Country Club, Arlington Park Towers vs L-Tran Engineering, and Franklin-Weber Pontiac vs Doyle's - Des Plaines Lanes.

Arlington Boys Football

by LARRY DICKERSON

Only the Rams remain undefeated and untied after the third week of play in the Arlington Heights Boys Football League. The Rams stayed on top of the Senior division with an 18-6 win over the 49'ers. The Lions stayed in second with a 26-0 shutout of the Redskins.

In the Varsity division, the Vikings and Brosns tied 12-12 to remain deadlocked for the lead. The Steelers lost to the Giants 20-8, but remained in second place. In the other Varsity League game, the Saints beat the Eagles 6-0.

The Cardinals took over the Junior League lead by shocking the Bears 14-8. The Packers moved into a second place tie with the Bears by shutting out the Colts 14-0. The Falcons clawed the Cowboys 14-0.

Rams 18 — 49'ers 6

The Rams racked up their third consecutive victory defeating the 49'ers 18-6.

Ram Barry Carlstedt went in for a first quarter score on a 4-yard quarterback keeper. Fullback Jamie Braddock put points on the board in the second with a 6-yard sweep and again in the fourth period on a 13-yard pass from Carlstedt. Kurt Wagner gained yardage consistently to contribute to the Ram offense.

Barry Carlstedt and tackle Tom West recovered two fumbles each to inspire the Ram defense while Ram safety Todd Walker intercepted a pass.

The Rams gave up their first touchdown of the season when 49'er John Thompson snaked his way 65-yards on a kickoff return.

The game was closer defensively than the final score indicates. Fumbles deep in 49'er territory led to two Ram scores. Mike Loiacono, Peter Shaw, Tom Murray, Gary Kempton, and Art Klein of the Rams were stellar on defense.

Lions 26 — Redskins 0

The Lions, coached by Dick Schnell, stayed within striking distance of the Rams in the Senior League by overpowering the Redskins 26-0.

The first Lion touchdown was on a 60-yard run by John Gillen. Dave Thielemann banged over for the second TD from eight yards out.

Gary Adams scored again on a 15-yard pass from Gillen. The fourth touchdown was scored in the final minutes of the game when Bruce Peterson intercepted a Redskin pass and sprinted 30 yards into the end zone. Kenny Gillen scored the conversion.

Dave Thielemann stood out on both offense and defense for the Lions. Bob Lamic starred for the Lions' "B" defense.

Mark Duckworth, Matt Arnoux, and Mark Schranz were the top tackles for the Redskins.

Vikings 12 — Browns 12

Mike Williams of the Browns dazzled the spectators again Saturday, scoring two touchdowns, as the Browns tied the Vikins 12-12.

Williams broke four tackles in a 25-yard TD run in the second quarter.

Viking halfback Don Holmes plunged four yards between right guard and tackle in the third stanza to tie the score. In the fourth period, end Ross Harbaugh caught a 20-yard pass from Nickey Zec to bring the Browns into Viking country. Mike Williams then ran 20 yards for his second tally.

Viking Rob Erickson galloped 25 yards around right end in the last three minutes to keep the score tied. Erickson carried 18 times for 129 yards.

Mike Bolger and Greg Adams led the Vikings in overall defensive play as Mike Brien and Don Holmes both recoverde key fumbles.

Jim Butts was outstanding on defense for the Browns making 12 unassisted tackles. Jeff Smithern made six and Dave Purkis four.

Giants 20 — Steelers 8

The Giants broke into the win column for the first time by handing the Steelers their first loss 20-8.

John Wakely scored on a 23-yard pass play from Steeler quarterback Brad Russell after Chris Carlson recovered a fumble in the first quarter. Steve Marwitz made an end zone tackle for a safety to give the Steelers another two points.

Stan Huffer scored one touchdown for the Giants. Brian Furman went 45 yards off tackle for another and Gary Vevang ran an interception back 70 yards for the third.

Steve Cowen and John Zabel led the Giant defensive effort and Kevin Widlick and Jim Schnur stood out on both offense and defense.

Kent Motzkus and Brian Gallagher ran hard for the Steelers behind holes opened by Chris Carlson and Mike Loch.

Saints 6 — Eaglse 0

The Saints shut out the Eagles 6-0 to rise out of the Varsity League cellar.

A defensive battle punctuated by fumbles was in progress until late in the fourth quarter when Saint Dan Weber ran 66 yards to the Eagle 12. Halfback Rick Sanders scored the touchdown on a sprint around end.

Outstanding line play by Keith Hogan and Jim Murphy helped the Saints offensively. Dan Weber, Pat Driscoll, and Mike Andejeski led on defense.

Eagle halfbacks John Baroni and John Salat and end Chris Birkett picked up five first downs behind their offensive line. Excelling on defense for the Eagles were Mark Gherardini, Jeff Nanak,, and Chuck Klein.

Cardinals 14 — Bears 8

The Cardinals jolted the Bears out of the unbeaten ranks 14-8 and took over first place in the Junior League behind scintillating offensive play by Bill Bateson, Scott Smith, John Sayer, and Bill Hajek.

Quarterback Bateson initiated the first touchdown drive in the second quarter by going 15 yards on a keeper to the Bear 15. Bill Hajek plunged in from the one.

In the fourth quarter, Pat O'Brien picked off a pass on the Bear 20 and ran to the 10-yard line. Scott Smith ran off tackle for the second TD. John Sayer went off tackle again for the two-pointer.

Card linemen Craig Kochen and Tim Maves combined in an all around defensive effort.

Packers 14 — Colts 0

The Packers surged to a second place tie with the Bears in the Junior League by blanking the Colts 14-0.

In the first quarter, the Pack drove to within inches of the goal line. Bill Hopper plunged over, but the play was recalled on a penalty. The quarter ended 0-0.

With seconds remaining in the first half, a 30-yard pass play from Peter Senten to Greg Dick again took the ball to the 1-yard line. Dan Makeever plowed over for the score. Andy Dickerson banged in for the extra points. The first half ended 8-0.

A scoreless third period ended with the Packers on the 2-yard line. With the fourth quarter under way, Greg Dick punched in for the touchdown. The conversion attempt failed.

A spirited overall defensive team effort led by Rich Kita, John Casciaro, and Dean Kalahar gave the Packers their second consecutive shut out.

Sweeps by Mike Skiermanski of the Packer "B" team helped maintain good field position. "Jumbo" Kahn led good blocking by the Packer interior line.

Colt Curt White threatened twice on long runs. Dan Thorp and Jeff Barone led the Colt blocking, while Ralph Zelen, Steve Fuessle and Mike Dace were tough defensively.

Falcons 14 — Cowboys 0

Coach Jim Sander's Falcons tasted victory by belting the Cowboys 14-0. On a broken play from the 2-yard line, Bruce Pokuta rolled out around right end for a second quarter TD. Attempt for extra points failed.

In the third quarter, Jeff Braddock intercepted a Cowboy aerial after Tony Aiello forced the passer to throw high and scampered 48 yards down the sideline for the second Falcon score. Tony Aiello blasted over right guard for the extra points.

Interior linemen Harry Brown, Joe Brown, and Steve Jones all recovered fumbles and led Falcon tackling.

Cowboys Hanskey, Breit, Rudolph, and Halleck stood out offensively. Fish, Campbell, and Vokivich played good defense.

point sweep. In their match against Uncle Andy's Cow Palace they won the first game 967 to 952, the second game 981 to 944 and added 921 to win the series 2869 to 2765. Hoffman's 2869 was unusual in that no 600's were rolled. Low man was 558 for Hoffman while the high man was Ray Lofthouse with 591.

Uncle Andy's Warren Olson rolled 212, 236, and 196 for a 644 series which was high for the night.

Gaare Oil defeated PCTL No. 3 5-2 but dropped two points behind the league leaders. PCTL No. 2 was led by Mike Cregan who built a 614 series with the help of a 228 and a 216 game. Bud Ewert of PCTL No. 3 fired a 235 game and a 609 series. Hank Thullen of Gaare Oil led his team with 598. PCTL No. 3 rolled 1024 the second game to earn their two points.

Next week at Barrington's Ten Pin Bowl it will be Uncle Andy's vs Des Plaines Ace Hardware, Gaare Oil vs Morton Pontiac, Bank of Rolling Meadows vs PCTL No. 3, and PCTL No. 2 vs Hoffman Lanes.

Commandos Whip Hanover

Hoffman Commandos pleased a homecoming crowd with a 32-6 victory over the Hanover Park Bears. The Commando's got off to their best start Sunday as on the third play from scrimmage David Curtin broke for 31 yards and a TD. Tim Tyrrell scored the extra point on a scamper around right end. After four Hanover Park attempts the Commando's ran the ball to the Hanover Park 10-yard line before losing the ball.

Hanover Park was forced to punt seven plays later. Tony Iannotti, who had an outstading day on defense blocked the punt and Stu Ironside who continues to add to his defensive points ran the blocked punt in for a TD. Casey Moore added another TD on a 40-yard scamper. Fernando Caraballo added the point-after. The half ended with the score 20-0.

The Commandos continued to dominate the second half as Brian Eld hit Dan Hayes down the middle on a 23-yard TD pass.

The lone Hanover Park TD came on a counter play to the weak side. The Commandos added their last TD on a 32-yard gallop by Carabello as the clock ran out. Fernando led the offense with 72 yards in six carries.

Coach Dan Rooney credit the defensive team and defensive coach Chuck Childers with an outstanding effort, especially Dan Steinhoff, Larry Gober, Don Holland, and Dan Fasig.

A fitting climax to the homecoming festivities was the crowning of the Commando queen Miss Laurie Fidler by captains, Paul Leonard, David Curtin, and Stuart Ironside. The Queen was accompanied by the Court of Dawn Vlasayt, Theresa Rooney, Val Gibbs, len Heisen, Jackie Heuer, Kim Korzeniewski, Gail Maties, Patty Maties, Vicki Schwartz, Karen Jone, and Gina Erpito.

Raiders Rally For 13-12 Win

The Hoffman Raiders got off to a poor start Sunday in their game with the Hanover Park Rams. The first half ended with the Rams leading 12-0, but they rallied to win, 13-12.

In the third quarter the Raiders received and moved to the Rams 41 when they fumbled. The Rams however handed the ball right back when Don Anderson intercepted a Ram pass and returned it to the Ram 32. They couldn't make their 1st down so the Rams took over.

A holding penalty and a fumble caused by Tim Liebert resulted in the Raiders getting the ball at their own 46 yard line. Sixteen yards by Doug Oslance, 15 yards by Kevin Weaver and 15 yards by Bill Armstrong resulted in a touchdown by Weaver from three yards out. The extra point was good. The score was then 12-7.

After the kickoff the Raiders had three plays and fumbled. The Raiders recovered on their own 34 and three plays later an Armstrong handoff was intercepted by a lineman and returned to the Raiders 44. On the 1st play from scrimmage the Rams returned the favor and fumbled, the Raiders recovering on their own 45.

With only four and a half minutes remaining in the game the Raiders playing errorless football moved for three first downs. With less than one minute remaining to play Weaver plunged over Jim Pye's guard spot for the TD.

Key contributions to the final touchdown were made by the line of Anderson, Bob Davis, Jim Pye, Chris Crawford, Tim McElroy, Brock Bomkamp and Phil Rice and the backfield of Jeff Johnson, Bill Armstrong, Kevin Weaver and Doug Oslance.

At Rolling Meadows

The Charismas fired a 2032 series and 729 game, both tops in the Thursday Eye Openers League at Rolling Meadows Bowl . . . Top scores of the week were Dottie Bendis' 494-200, Claire Bakowski's 490-193, Dee Begale's 193, Marilyne Mack's 178, Jenelle Dearen's 175 and Scotty Cole's 170 . . . Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

IT NEARLY PUTS A Wyoming boy's mouth out of shape to say it, but I believe the midwestern whitetail deer is a lot smarter than the mule deer I grew up with.

The western mule deer is justifiably famous for a lot of things. He's huge, just for openers. I remember the first whitetail buck I ever shot. He looked a little smallish down the barrel of my .270, but when I walked up on him I nearly panicked. Compared to the muleys I was accustomed to, I'd have sworn it was an antlered fawn!

I always thought the mule deer was smart, too. More likely, he could be called merely cautious. He could hear trees growing a mile away, it seemed. And he could see right through a rocky mountain. He has the nerve of a Chinese bandit and he can run like . . . well, like a deer.

But I'm quickly becoming convinced that the whitetail is smarter.

I've never seen anything, except a cottontail rabbit, freeze so quickly and so surely as a whitetail who senses danger. Put a mule deer and a whitetail side by side in an opening in a small stand of jackpine and two different things will happen if they hear a twig crack.

The mule deer will make a tremendous leap into the nearest cover and continue smashing through it, bulldozing his way to safety. And you can be mounted on Citation and you're not going to ever see him again. You might track a herd of mules, but if you set out after a spooked single, you'll just be kidding yourself.

The whitetail, though, in that same situation, will freeze. Rabbit-like, there won't be a twitch of a hair and unless you're a very experienced hunter with equally experienced eyes and patience, you're not likely to see him.

Every year thousands of hunters return home from the "wilds" of Wisconsin and Illinois, reporting not a deer to be seen anywhere. "Hunted out," they will tell you.

Game managers and wardens tell a different set of stories:

The Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station in Michigan held a "sight hunting" experiment. Six veteran hunters and 39 deer (seven bucks) were pitted against each other in one square mile surrounded by deer-proof fencing. It took four days before one buck was seen!

During the next four years, in the same area the herd grew in numbers, but the best sighting record by experienced stalkers was 14 hours to get within shooting range of any deer . . . and 51 hours to locate one buck!

In South Dakota, a radio transmitter was attached to a buck along with long orange streamers through its ear tags. Hunters sent into the area saw no trace of the buck for seven days, yet many of them passed within 40 yards of him. Guided by the radio receiver, drives were made to push the buck out into the open — no deer. Finally, using the radio again, a bush-by-bush search was conducted all morning and afternoon — no deer. Just as they were going to give up the whole thing, the buck was found by a searcher who nearly stepped on him curled up under a bush. Nine days elapsed time since release.

Hunters always have tales to tell of the deer that "just appeared out of nowhere," "that disappeared without seeming to move," or that was "nothing but a flash of white in the brush."

Last season a warden was watching with binoculars a deer that had bedded down in the middle of a strip of corn. A group of hunters appeared and fanned out to drive the corn strip, walking down the rows. One hunter was on a course that would take him right to the resting deer. The warden saw the buck's horns rise, although the hunters didn't. He figured the buck was set to take off well ahead of the hunters. However, the deer simply moved over a few rows and lay down again. The warden said he was doubly astonished, though, when, after the hunter walked right by him, the deer had the audacity to get up and go back to its original bed right behind the stalking hunter.

Whether you call them stealthy or sneaky or smart, one thing is certain, they are apparently capable of living very well in areas that don't make it especially easy for them.

I can remember hunting mule deer and spending almost as much time listening as we spent looking. But I also can remember fishing from the bank of the Peshtigo River last fall and seeing a deer walk quite calmly within a long cast of my fly rod. What was astounding is that although the ground was covered with dry leaves and other windfall, the white tail made not a sound as she passed.

After she'd made her way casually back into the timber I walked over and looked at the tracks, partly just to prove to myself that the silent deer had really been there. The tracks were all carefully put down on moist ground between the leaves and the broken twigs and branches. That deer would have made a Cheyenne Indian feel like a klutz when it came to silent travel.

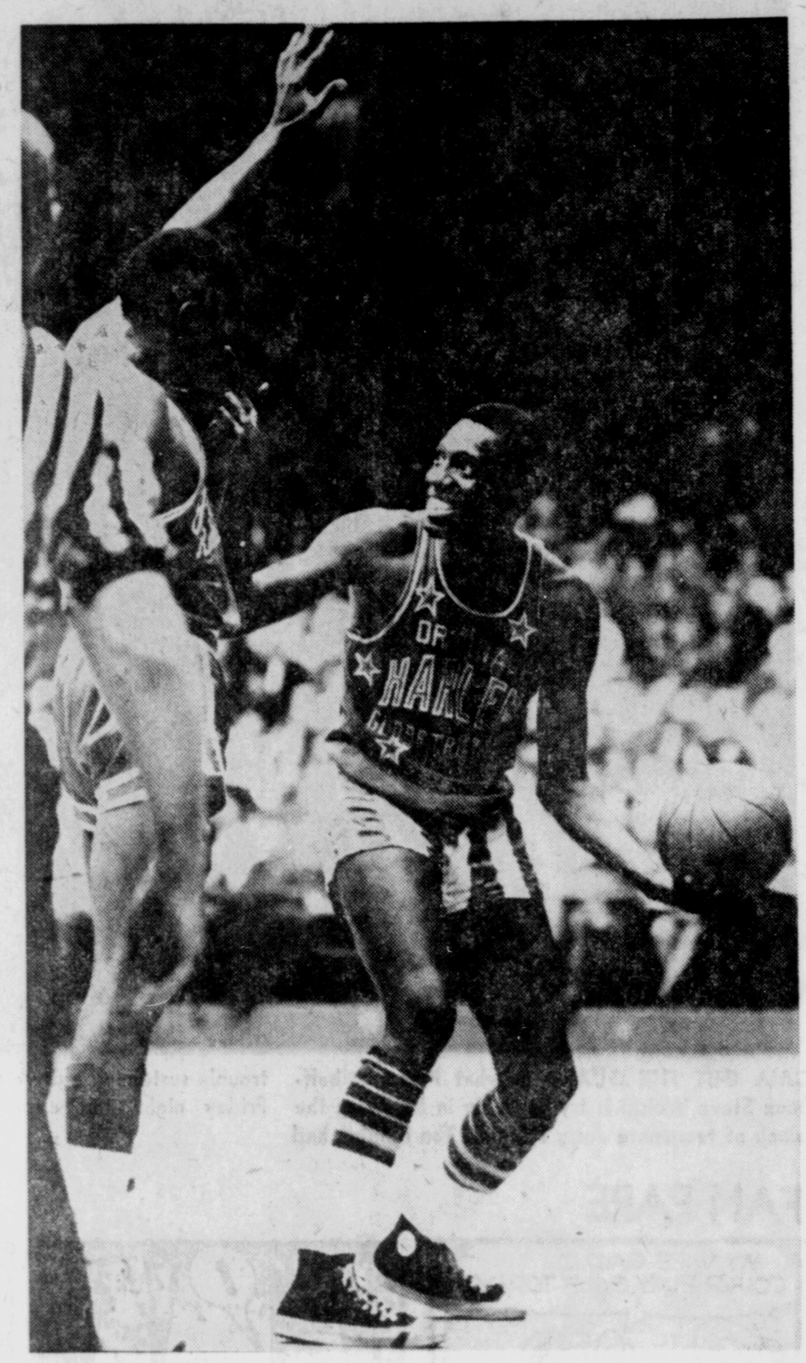

It's hard to believe a deer can really be that stealthy, but it was made clear to me as never before, when, as a guest along with a group of other writers we watched a whitetail buck put his belly right down on the ground and with his head and tail down he crawled through what seemed like no more than a foot or two of brush, silently, right past a stand of hunters who were armed to the teeth. They had cleverly placed their stand so that a deer would walk out of timber on one side, into the "open" low brush area, toward timber on the other side.

From our fire tower observation point we watched that buck "slither" through the brush as the hunters appeared to be studiously scanning their area for the slightest sign of deer.

They didn't even hear him, they told us later.

Allen Ahead

The Washington Redskins' George Allen had the best record among National Football League coaches going into the 1972 season. His teams had compiled a 58-21-5 record for a .734 winning percentage. Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings was second on a .687 mark, 46-21-3. Dallas' Tom Landry had the most wins, 88, but his teams had also lost 72 games.

OUTFOXED YOU. The Harlem Globetrotters' famed Clown Prince, Meadowlark Lemon, loves to taunt his opponents, and he'll be in action on Monday evening, Oct. 16, at Arlington High School's Grace Gym.

Trotters To Appear At Arlington's Gym

The Harlem Globetrotters' appearance at the Arlingtn High School gym, Monday, Oct. 16, will be their first appearance at the oldest Dist. 214 school in eight years.

While the Magicians of Basketball have played at several surrounding schools in recent seasons, their last performance at Arlington High School was on Oct. 23, 1964.

The Oct. 16th event will be their eighth game in Arlington Heights since their first showing in 1952.

Led by their remarkable court jester, Meadowlark Lemon, the Trotters open their 47th season Saturday, Oct. 14, at Bradley University's Robertson Fieldhouse.

Other stars joining Lemon in the Trotters' famed hijinks are Freddie (Curly) Neal, the dribbling phenom; Bobbie Joe Mason, ex-Bradley All-American cager; Nate Branch, All-Big Eight cager from the University of Nebraska and Jumpin' Jackie Jackson, Virginia Union University.

The appearance is sponsored by the Arlington High School Boosters Club, whose president is Ray Collins.

Tickets are on sale now at Cunningham-Reilly, 45 S. Dunton, The Bank & Trust Co. at Arlington Market, Tollway-Arlington National Bank, Yardstick Shop at North Point Shopping Center and Palatine Tailored Drapery.

Stevenson Drops First Game, 14-7

by DAN FINKELMAN

The Stevenson Patriots' took it on the chin Saturday as the Little Flower Lancers dropped them 14-7 for the Pat's first defeat of the season.

The game was dominated by the hard hitting, tight defense of the Lancers who allowed the Patriots only one sustained drive throughout the entire game.

The Lancers did the only scoring in the first half of the contest on a beautiful 40 yard run by Quarterback Bob McKay. McKay did a fine job on the fake pass and scampered up the middle for the score. Little Flower tried for the two-point conversion and failed.

The Patriots came out using the Wishbone backfield and proved how difficult it is to operate. The Lancers contained Dan Lange's runs up the middle and the wind stopped any passing attempts.

Following the kickoff of the second half the Patriots changed offensive operations back to the familiar Power-I formation.

Charlie Andrus and Dan Lange started ripping up the middle and off-tackle for gains of 8 to 10 yards at a clip. By the time the Lancers had adjusted the Patriots were on the five. Lange took the handoff from Mercier and ran up the middle for the score.

Steve VanDermerkt's extra point kick hit the middle bar and popped over to give the Patriots a temporary 7-6 lead.

The Patriots could not capitalize on their breaks. Mike Souders recovered a fumble at the 45 and the Pat's marched all the way to the 15 only to be stopped on 4th down. The last score of the game came with only four minutes left. The Patriots punted to the Lancers at their own 49 and Tim Miller ran it back to the 35. The next play saw Don Reese carry to the 20 and set up the score by Joe Svetkovich from the 20. This time the two point conversion was good on a halfback pass to Tom York. The final score: 14-7.

The Patriot defense was hurting. Both Bruce Lowry and Gene D'Ambrosio were playing injured and despite this they turned in fine games. The Wishbone Offense needs work and the Patriots have two weeks of practice before they meet Elgin Academy on the 14th of October.

Spectrum Offers Skating Classes

Beginning this week and running for the next nine weeks will be special learn to skate classes being offered at the Arlington Ice Spectrum, 1350 E. Northwest Highway, in Palatine.

The first session for the new rink will start off on Wednesday. Each session lasts 10 weeks. The second starts the week of Dec. 11 and the third begins the week of Feb. 19.

Classes begin with first graders and up.

'Can't Believe' His Hole-In-One

"I couldn't believe it was happening to me."

That's Jim Trusk of Mount Prospect talking.

Last Saturday, Jim drilled his first hold-in-one ever into the circular target on the fourth hole of the "Briar Patch" at Lake Geneva, Wis., Playboy Club.

The fourth hole is 170 yards long. Jim used a six iron.

He'd come close before in 10 years of golfing — " like two or three feet."

Oh, yes, Jim's score?

"I'd tell you if you wouldn't print it," Jim said.

Sorry, Jim, we'd have to print it.

Jim Stewart Will Present 'Safari'

"Safari," a color film depicting the bush country of East Africa, will be presented Tuesday, Oct. 17, at Palatine High School.

The film, which will be accompanied by a lecture by travel expert Jim Stewart, will be presented at 8 p.m. that night. It is the first in the travel-adventure lecture series sponsored by High School Dist. 211 and Harper College.

Tickets for the single lecture are $1, or $5 for a season ticket to include five other film-lectures on various parts of the world.

Other presentations will include films on Spain, Jamaica and Greece. Programs will be once a month through April except for December.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

There are lots of ways of bidding to six hearts. One shown in the box is based on the fact that North's three-club bid was a slam try of some sort and his four-heart bid showed that it was in hearts. South's five-heart bid asked partner to go to six with good hearts and North obliged.

South wins the diamond lead and plays the two top hearts. If hearts broke, there would be no trouble with the slam, but West discards the deuce of diamonds and there is a sure heart loser.

South doesn't give up. There is a simple way to play the hand, which is to ruff his last diamond in dummy, play spades and eventually throw East in with his high trump. East will have to lead a club and if the club honors are split South will be able to avoid the loss of a club trick.

South does ruff the diamond and he plays three rounds of spades. East follows to the third spade and South should stop a monent and try to count the hand.

He can't get an exact count but he knows that East started with three spades, three hearts and some number of diamonds. West led the three of that suit and played the deuce next.

If South decides that West started with five diamonds, that gives East the same number and leaves him just two clubs.

Now South changes his plan and cashes the two top clubs before throwing East in. East doesn't have a club left and has to give South a ruff and discard.

Diamonds...
The Real Thing!

The lasting beauty of real diamonds is appreciated by everyone. In celebration of our 10th anniversary of service, we have arranged a special offering of diamond jewelry from DuBarry Fifth Avenue of New York.

Your selection can vary from cuff links or earrings for as little as $15 to beautiful rings and necklaces for $1,000, 37 items to choose from. Diamond jewelry of this quality and breadth of selection has never before been offered by a financial institution. This jewelry is offered to you at approximately 50% of its estimated retail value.

To become eligible to participate in this unique program, simply open a new checking account, or deposit to a new or existing savings account as follows: a $25 deposit for each item $50 or less; a $50 deposit for each $100 item; a $500 deposit for each item $500 or more.

And if your savings deposit brings your savings account balance to $500, you also become eligible for a free checking account.

Give someone the immediate pleasure and lasting beauty of diamonds. And use it as your incentive to put a few dollars aside for the future.
